Razing Rafah Fred Abrahams,Marc E. Garlasco,Darryl Li,2004 This report show most of the destruction in Rafah occurred along the Israel controlled border between the Gaza Strip and Egypt During regular nighttime raids and with little or no warning Israel forces used armored caterpillar D9 bulldozers to raze blocks of homes at the edge of the camp incrementally expanding a buffer zone that is currently up to three hundred meters wide The pattern of destruction strongly suggests that Israeli forces demolished homes wholesale regardless of whether they posed a specific threat in violation of international law In most cases Human Rights Watch found the destruction carried out in the absence of military necessity

Boots on the ground: Troop Density in Contingency Operations John J. McGrath,2006 This paper clearly shows the immediate relevancy of historical study to current events One of the most common criticisms of the U S plan to invade Iraq in 2003 is that too few troops were used The argument often fails to satisfy anyone for there is no standard against which to judge A figure of 20 troops per 1000 of the local population is often mentioned as the standard but as McGrath shows that figure was arrived at with some questionable assumptions By analyzing seven military operations from the last 100 years he arrives at an average number of military forces per 1000 of the population that have been employed in what would generally be considered successful military campaigns He also points out a variety of important factors affecting those numbers from geography to local forces employed to supplement soldiers on the battlefield to the use of contractors among others
