M. Carlomagno,2013-07-02 This book contains the results of the sixteenth in a biennial series of meetings organised by the Wessex Institute of Technology to facilitate that communication between scientists who perform experiments researchers who develop computer codes and those who carry out measurements on prototypes The conference was first held in 1984 While computer models are now more reliable and better able to represent more realistic problems experimental measurements need to be conditioned to the requirements of the computational models Progress of engineering sciences depends on the orderly and progressive concurrent development of all three fields The papers contained in the book cover such topics as Computational and experimental methods Computer interaction and control of experiments Fluid flow Structural and stress analysis Computer methods Materials characterization Heat transfer and thermal processes Data acquisition and signal processing Advances in measurements and data acquisition Multiscale modelling Industrial applications Collaborative Multidisciplinary Design Optimization for Conceptual Design of Complex Products Edris Safavi,2016-10-06 MULTIDISCIPLINARY design optimization MDO has developed in theory and practice during the last three decades with the aim of optimizing complex products as well as cutting costs and product development time Despite this development the implementation of such a method in industry is still a challenge and many complex products suffer time and cost overruns Employing higher fidelity models HFMs in conceptual design one of the early and most important phases in the design process can play an important role in increasing the knowledge base regarding the concept under evaluation However design space in the presence of HFMs could significantly be expanded MDO has proven to be an important tool for searching the design space and finding optimal solutions This leads to a reduction in the number of design iterations later in the design process with wiser and more robust decisions made early in the design process to rely on In complex products different systems from a multitude of engineering disciplines have to work tightly together This stresses the importance of evolving various domain experts in the design process to improve the design from diverse engineering perspectives Involving more engineers in the design process early on raises the challenges of collaboration known to be an important barrier to MDO implementation in industry Another barrier is the unavailability and lack of MDO experts in industry those who understand the MDO process and know the implementation tasks involved In an endeavor to address the mentioned implementation challenges a novel collaborative multidisciplinary design optimization CMDO framework is defined in order to be applied in the conceptual design phase CMDO provides a platform where many engineers team up to increase the likelihood of more accurate decisions being taken early on The structured way to define the engineering responsibilities and tasks involved in MDO helps to facilitate the implementation process It will be further elaborated that educating active engineers with MDO knowledge is an expensive and time consuming process for industries Therefore a guideline for CMDO implementation in conceptual design is proposed in this thesis that can be easily followed by design engineers with limited prior knowledge in MDO The performance of the framework is evaluated in a number of case studies including applications such as aircraft design and the design of a tidal water power plant and by engineers in industry and student groups in academia
