Subordinating Intelligence David P. Oakley,2019-03-15 In the late eighties and early nineties driven by the post Cold War environment and lessons learned during military operations United States policy makers made intelligence support to the military the Intelligence Community's top priority In response to this demand the CIA and DoD instituted policy and organizational changes that altered their relationship with one another While debates over the future of the Intelligence Community were occurring on Capitol Hill the CIA and DoD were expanding their relationship in peacekeeping and nation building operations in Somalia and the Balkans By the late 1990s some policy makers and national security professionals became concerned that intelligence support to military operations had gone too far In Subordinating Intelligence The DoD CIA Post Cold War Relationship David P Oakley reveals that despite these concerns no major changes to national intelligence or its priorities were implemented These concerns were forgotten after 9 11 as the United States fought two wars and policy makers increasingly focused on tactical and operational actions As policy makers became fixated with terrorism and the United States fought in Iraq and Afghanistan the CIA directed a significant amount of its resources toward global counterterrorism efforts and in support of military operations

Global Criminal and Sovereign Free Economies and the Demise of the Western Democracies Robert J. Bunker, Pamela Ligouri Bunker, 2014-09-15 Much has been written about the many economic benefits of globalization and the triumph and spread of democratic liberalism with the end of the Cold War following the demise of the Soviet Union This work takes issue with such wine and roses perspectives about the future of the Western democracies and their faith based views on the moral purity of a globalized marketplace It also questions many of the assumptions found in the status quo reinforcing discipline of international political economy IPE a discipline that focuses on the formal and legitimate economies and the faith they present that international relations and commerce is still dominated and dictated solely by the old Westphalian state centric system Having highlighted these concerns this book looks at two major themes The first theme focuses on the theoretical perception that a Dark Renaissance is taking place globally one in which the Western liberal democracies and its citizens are ill prepared to respond because it exists at the trans civilization level bridging the modern to the post modern world The second theme focuses on the actual process of state deconstruction that is taking place This process is leading to what may become the very undoing of the democracies Drawing together experts from a variety of backgrounds this work explores the increasing shift away from formal based capitalism and evaluates through case studies how different states are responding to the challenges they face This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of international political economy
