Improving Health Sector Performance Hossein Jalilian, 2003-08-01 There is growing international evidence that the effectiveness of health services stems primarily from the extent to which the incentives facing providers and consumers are aligned with e better healthe objectives Efficiency in health service provision requires that providers and consumers have incentives to use healthcare resources in ways that generate the maximum health gains Equity in at least one sense requires that consumers requiring the same care are treated equally irrespective of their ability to pay Efficiency in the use of health services requires that consumers are knowledgeable about the services on offer and which are most appropriate to their needs Although these principles are enshrined in the design of every health system in the world they have proven extremely difficult to apply in practice Healthcare providers have financial obligations to their families as well as professional obligations to their patients Health service consumers generally lack information about both their health and health services so that they under consume or over consume healthcare The papers in this volume are selected from an international conference organized by the CDRI Cambodia that tried to deal with some of these issues With participation of international and local experts it aimed at collecting major experiences and innovative solutions from inside and outside the country to improve health sector performance with particular focus on institutions motivations and incentives Buddhist

From Traders to Innovators Goh Chor Boon, 2018-02-14 Today more than ever the state of a country's science and technology is a critical factor for economic competitiveness and long-term growth. This book traces the development of science and technology policies and initiatives in Singapore since 1965. Developed as a trading entrepot by the British, science and technology were never strongly emphasized right up to the 1970s. However, the need to stay ahead of economic competitiveness motivated the Singapore Government to initiate its national science and technology policy from the 1980s, moving Singapore from a low-skilled, low-technology economy to a high-skilled, high-technology one. Today, the drive for Singapore to become a hotbed for technological start-ups and R&D activities, supported by strong government funding and cutting-edge facilities, seems promising. Are the aspirations of nurturing a Silicon Valley-type culture in Singapore achievable? Are pragmatic, risk-averse Singaporeans ready for the mindset change? Can a nation of traders and service brokers become a nation of technological innovators and entrepreneurs? This book attempts to provide the answers.

One Degree, Many Choices Liu Fook Thim, 2003-08-01 An early crossroad in life is choosing a field of study at the university. That will lay the foundation for the rest of our lives. This book recorded the career choices of the first batch of 557 engineering graduates from the Nanyang Technological Institute (NTI, as NTU was known in 1985). Engineering was then the only discipline offered. The passage of 25 years yielded deep insights as these pioneers reflected on the impact of their engineering education on their careers. Demonstrating the reach and significance of engineering will arouse the curiosity and imagination of the young, especially those good at maths and science. Our life stories showcase the options open to an engineering graduate. If this book inspires some to take up an engineering education in general and at NTU in particular, it will have achieved its purpose.

Veil of Circumstance Jorgen Orstrom Moller, 2017-03-09 Discontent and frustrations around the world fuel commotion and rebellion against the global model. How did we get into this mess? How do we get out of it? Why doesn't globalization work? The author puts forward solutions to the most challenging transition civilization has ever faced, from individual societies to full humanity. Moller shows how the understanding of groups and values is the key to making our economics and politics work again.

Post-war Laos Vatthana Pholsena, 2003-08-01 More than a quarter of a century after the end of the war in 1975, the Lao leadership is still in search for a compelling nationalist narration. Its politics of culture and representation appear to be caught between the rhetoric of preservation and the desire for modernity. Meanwhile, originating from the periphery where ethnic minorities had hitherto been symbolically, politically, and administratively confined, the participation of some of their members in the Indochina Wars

1945 75 exposed these individuals to socialization and politicization processes This rigorously researched and cogently argued book is a fine grained analysis of substantial ethnographic material showing the politics of identity the geographies of memory and the power of narratives of some members of ethnic minority groups who fought during the Vietnam War in the Lao People s Liberation Army and or were educated within the revolutionary administration No study has ever been conducted on the latter s views on the national ist project of the late socialist era Their own perceptions of their membership of the nation have been overlooked Post War Laos is a set to be a landmark study and an original contribution which refines established theories of nationalism such as Anderson s imagined community by addressing a common weakness namely their tendency to deny agency to individuals who in fact interpret their relationship to and place within the nation in a variety of ways that may change according to time and circumstance

Living with Uncertainty Setsuko Shibuya, 2016-04-29 This book is one of the first ethnographies written on the life of farmers in rural Southern Vietnam since the economic reform in the 1980s It investigates how social economic and political factors affect the farmers life in the Mekong Delta in the late socialist era with a particularly focus on the family which serves as the basic and most significant social unit for the farmers Dealing with classical anthropological topics of kinship and family the book examines them as dynamic institutions With vivid illustrations of the village life family farming education of children jobs outside of farming and everyday politics it presents new and different pictures of the current Vietnamese family under rapid social changes The book will contribute to the current ethnographical research in Vietnam and Southeast Asia and also be of particular interest to those working on society and culture in the geographical region from broader disciplines It will also appeal to readers who are interested in such topics as late socialism social transformation and rural development
