Grade Life Science Government Paper 24:

High-School Biology Today and Tomorrow National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Life Sciences, Committee on High-School Biology Education, 1989-02-01 Biology is where many of science's most exciting and relevant advances are taking place. Yet many students leave school without having learned basic biology principles and few are excited enough to continue in the sciences. Why is biology education failing? How can reform be accomplished? This book presents information and expert views from curriculum developers, teachers, and others offering suggestions about major issues in biology education: what should we teach in biology and how should it be taught? How can we measure results? How should teachers be educated and certified? What obstacles are blocking reform? Resources in Education, 1991

Adolescents and Their Families Richard M. Lerner, Domini R. Castellino, 2013-12-02 First published in 1999, the adolescent period is marked by changes in the biological, psychological, cognitive, and social dimensions of the individual as well as by changes in the adolescent's multilevel context, i.e., the peers, family, school, and other institutions in his or her ecology. Adolescence is a dynamic period, one which exemplifies the importance of understanding the relations between the developing individual and his or her changing context. The articles included in this volume represent the current range of scholarship pertaining to adolescents and their families and exemplify the use of such an approach The articles underscore the continual importance of the family across adolescence Scientific Temperance Monthly Advises ,1965 Research in Education ,1971
