Reception A British Case Study presents an intervention into the scholarship on the representation of the Holocaust on film Based on a study of audience responses to select films Stefanie Rauch demonstrates that the reception of films about the Holocaust is a complex process that we cannot understand through textual analysis alone but by also paying attention to individual reception processes This book restores the agency of viewers and takes seriously their diverse responses to representations of the Holocaust It demonstrates that viewers interpretative resources play an important role in film reception Viewers regard Holocaust films as a separate genre that they encounter with a set of expectations The author highlights the implications of Britain's lessons focused approach to Holocaust education and commemoration and addresses debates around the supposed globalization of Holocaust memory by unpacking the peculiar Britishness of viewers responses to films about the Holocaust A sense of emotional connection or its absence to the Holocaust and its memory speaks to divisions along ethnic generational and national lines

Where Is God in a Messed-Up World? Roger Carswell, 2009 If God exists and really is a God of love then why doesn't he stop the suffering and problems in our world Roger Carswell is realistic enough to admit that there are things God reveals to us and things he doesn't reveal He argues that the starting point is to find out who God is and figure out if he can be trusted even if we don't have all the answers God has not only been faithful to me he has been overwhelmingly kind incredibly merciful consistently good and unbelievably patient says Roger The author's own experience of suffering with depression and other real life stories that are included make this a compassionate look at one of the toughest questions about the Christian faith Moreover our questioning need not be a barrier to entrusting ourselves to God
