Memorandum Of Agric Paper 2 Gr 2014:

Global Agriculture and the American Farmer Kimberly Ann Elliott, 2017-06-27 The United States is one of the world's largest producers and exporters of a range of agricultural commodities and the largest provider of foreign assistance so U.S. policies have big effects on global food security and other global public goods linked to agriculture. On the positive side of the ledger President Obama created the Feed the Future aid initiative to promote agricultural development in poorer countries as a tool to achieve the global goals of ending hunger and extreme poverty which are mostly rural. But that generosity is undercut by U.S. support for farmers that distorts global markets and ignores negative spillovers for the rest of the world. In this book Elliott focuses on three policy areas that are particularly damaging for developing countries: traditional agricultural subsidy and trade policies that support the incomes of American farmers at the expense of farmers elsewhere; the biofuels mandate which in its current form increases market volatility while doing little if anything to mitigate climate change; and weak regulation of antibiotic use in livestock which contributes to the global spread of drug-resistant super bugs. While noting that broad reforms are needed to fix these problems, Elliott also identifies practical steps that U.S. policymakers could take in the relatively short run to improve farm policies for American taxpayers and consumers as well as for the poor and vulnerable in developing countries. OECD Food and Agricultural Reviews: Agricultural Policies in the Philippines

OECD, 2017-04-07 This report analyses Philippine agricultural policy. Agriculture provides 30% of total employment in the Philippines and represents 11% of its Gross Domestic Product. The Philippines has had notable recent overall economic success yet improving agricultural performance remains challenging. Agriculture, food security, and nutrition in

Malawi: Leveraging the links Aberman, Noora-Lisa, Meerman, Janice, Benson, Todd, 2018-02-22 Although the Malawian food supply is shaped largely by trends in smallholder food crop production, Malawi's decades-long focus on improving smallholder productivity has only moderately improved food security and nutrition outcomes. Country statistics indicate an estimated 36.7 percent of rural Malawian households failed to access sufficient calories between 2010 and 2011. During the same period 47 percent of children under the age of five years were estimated to be stunted in their growth. These indicators imply that some Malawian diets are lacking in terms of quantity, total calories consumed, and most are lacking in terms of quality, sufficient calories derived from nutrient-dense foods such as meat, fish, eggs, dairy, legumes, fruits, and vegetables. Good nutrition requires both enough total calories, quantity, and enough vitamins and minerals per calorie, quality. How can Malawi better leverage its smallholder agriculture sector to improve nutrition? This report provides a series of primary and secondary data analyses that examine different aspects of this question. The European Union's Common Agricultural Policy

Reforms Marko Lovec, 2016-08-02 This book engages in the controversies of the European Union's Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) reforms, demonstrating how these are reiterated by mainstream theoretical approaches in the field. The reforms that the European Union's CAP underwent during the last three decades were intended to make it less trade-distorting, more taxpayer friendly and more able to meet the new challenges of environmental concerns and rural development territorial cohesion The outcome of the reforms has however contradicted these objectives with the controversies being reiterated by the mainstream theoretical approaches in the field European Union s Common Agricultural Policy Reforms argues that these controversies are due to reductionist rationalist and idealist assumptions with regard to the object of inquiry applied by mainstream approaches It proposes an alternative critical approach that takes into account the role of real material factors Critical realism is not just an alternative explanation of CAP reforms but an alternative theory of how explanations can be made which enables readers to reflect upon and endorse the results of existing lines of research in proceeding towards deeper level theory

Agricultural Transformation in Nepal Ganesh Thapa, Anjani Kumar, P.K. Joshi, 2019-11-25 This book addresses some key strategic questions related to agriculture in the context of major contemporary developments and emerging challenges in Nepal such as the changing role of agriculture with economic growth structural transformation in reducing poverty improving nutritional outcomes and addressing the challenges of climate change The book also suggests policy measures to improve the delivery of critical inputs and services and ensure the participation of marginal and smallholders in high value chains Further it discusses how the new federal system and governance structure will affect the delivery of agricultural technology and services The book is divided into five parts Part I discusses macro issues in the agriculture sector while Part II focuses on agricultural productivity growth and its main drivers The third part explores diversification in the agricultural and non agricultural sectors by farmers and other rural people for livelihood improvement while the fourth part deals with agricultural trade and marketing issues highlighting policy implications and recommendations in the areas of immediate focus and further research Lastly Part V addresses institutions and governance issues which are vital for agricultural development In the final chapter the editors summarize and synthesize the book s main findings and develop a policy agenda for addressing the many challenges faced by the agriculture sector in Nepal so as to make it more productive competitive sustainable and inclusive The book offers a rich source of analytical information on various aspects of agricultural development in Nepal and will be of immense value to policymakers development partners civil society students and those interested in the economic and agricultural development of not only Nepal but also other developing countries

World Scientific Reference On Asia-Pacific Trade Policies (In 2 Volumes) Kym Anderson, 2019-12-19 Protectionism has been placed under the media spotlight with news headlines generated by populist anti globalization movements and Donald Trump s term as US President Such a policy stance is putting at risk unilateral trade reform efforts in the Asia Pacific region and elsewhere This two volume reference work provides a timely update on how far the region has come in opening markets It analyzes the motivations or ostensible objectives of policies adopted in the past the changing extent of the domestic price distortions involved the economic effects of those policies at home and abroad the political economy forces at work that brought about those policies and their subsequent reform their consequences for international trade economic welfare and poverty alleviation and prospects for sustainable improvements in current policies Case studies of major East Asian economies and Australia reveal how government priorities to assist farmers versus manufacturers changed over the past century but especially since the 1980s and how that has affected trade between natural resource poor and resource rich economies This set is highly recommended for those who are interested in the economics and politics of trade policies agricultural economics economic development and food and nutrition security in the Asia Pacific region and beyond

Overview of the evolution of agricultural mechanization in Nigeria Takeshima, Hiroyuki, Lawal, Akeem, 2018-08-17 Demand for mechanization in Nigeria is growing in a fairly consistent way predicted by economic theories The farming system has intensified and the use of animal traction has grown at a substantial rate Demand side factors considerably explain the low adoptions of tractors in Nigeria Where demand is sufficient for tractors the private sector has emerged over time as a more efficient provider of hiring services particularly farmer to farmer services than the public sector Conditions are consistent with the hypotheses that because of generally low support for the agricultural sector in Nigeria in the past few decades agricultural mechanization tractor use in particular has remained low despite the declining share of the workforce engaged in the agricultural sector Agricultural transformation in the form of a declining agricultural labor force has happened partly through the growth in the oil industry since the 1970s Instead of inducing further exit from farming tractor adoptions in Nigeria might have helped those who have remained in farming to start expanding their production scale A knowledge gap however still remains regarding the dominance of large tractors and the potential effects of tractor adoptions on smallholders who have yet to adopt them

Handbook on Green Growth Roger Fouquet, 2019 Economies around the world have arrived at a critical juncture to continue to grow fuelled by fossil fuels and exacerbate climate change or to move towards more sustainable greener growth Choosing the latter is shown to help address climate change as well as present new economic opportunities This Handbook provides a deeper understanding of the concept of green growth and highlights key lessons from the experience of green transformations across the world following a decade of ambitious stimulus packages and green reforms

Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World Miguel Sioui, 2022-05-19 Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World presents a series of global case studies that examine how different Indigenous groups are dealing with various water management challenges and finding creative and culturally specific ways of developing solutions to these challenges With contributions from Indigenous and non Indigenous academics scientists and water management experts this volume provides an overview of key water management challenges specific to Indigenous peoples proposes possible policy solutions both at the international and national levels and outlines culturally relevant tools for assessing vulnerability and building capacity In recent decades global climate change particularly drought has brought about additional water management challenges especially in drought prone regions where increasing average temperatures and diminishing precipitation are leading to water crises Because their livelihoods are often dependent on the land and water Indigenous groups native to those regions have direct insights into the localized impacts of global environmental change and are increasingly developing their own adaptation and mitigation strategies and solutions based on local Indigenous knowledge IK Many Indigenous groups around the globe are also faced with mounting pressure from extractive industries like mining and forestry which further threaten their water resources The various cases presented in Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World provide much needed insights into the particular issues faced by Indigenous peoples in preserving their water resources as well as actionable information that can inform future scientific research and policymaking aimed at developing more integrated region specific and culturally relevant solutions to these critical challenges Includes diverse case studies from around the world Provides cutting edge perspectives about Indigenous peoples water management issues and IK based solutions Presents maps for most case studies along with a summary box to conclude each chapter

European Identities, Inclusion and Equality Despoina

Anagnostopoulou, 2025-07-14 The volume takes an interdisciplinary and intersectional approach to recent trends in European identities social exclusion and poverty on the one hand and social rights and equality legislation and policies in the European Union on the other It examines whether legal instruments and policies can effectively address structural discrimination and social exclusion explores their interplay with identity politics and stereotypes and examines how legal principles and policies translate into societal progress and inclusion at both the EU and national levels The book highlights the social rights safeguarded in the European Pillar of Social Rights the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights and the Council of Europe s European Social Charter as well as the role of EU and national courts in interpreting social rights and non discrimination legislation Using case studies from Greece Italy and Spain the book examines state and civil society initiatives to combat poverty and marginalization The book will appeal to students researchers and academics in political science law sociology and education as well as policy makers and practitioners interested in equality and social policies aimed at combating social exclusion marginalization and poverty
