Varinlioglu, 2016-04-26 One can argue that academia has always existed in an information age however as the general public gains access to ever more advanced systems it can be claimed that areas of academia require updating to maintain vitality in today's world When nautical archaeology produces inspiring reports they are often at the hand of large budgets rather than general day to day dissemination This book proposes using state of the art low budget digital technology from the outset of surveys so that data may be recorded analysed and disseminated with seamless efficiency and great flair while employing progressively less decontextualized means Further it conveys a simple methodology that allows for data collection by teams of volunteer divers Big data rapid analysis and cross reference requirements have created a shift towards the need for advanced digital means particularly relating to underwater archaeology where survey time is limited This book logs several years of studies which respect in situ preservation where the limits of technology were stretched to the cutting edge using novel collection methods to populate custom built numerical and visual databases generating 2D and 3D digital models and further creating a Virtual Reality museum These advances not only propel the function of academia but also promote the image of archaeology in an age where visualisation matters Operational manual on indoor residual spraying World

Health Organization, 2024-02-13 Indoor residual spraying IRS involves applying residual insecticide to potential vector resting sites on the interior surfaces of human dwellings or other buildings The main aim of IRS is to kill vectors before they are able to transmit pathogens to humans When carried out correctly IRS has historically been shown to be a powerful intervention to reduce adult vector density and longevity for mosquitoes sand flies and triatomine bugs and can reduce the transmission of vector borne diseases This operational manual is designed to provide guidance on the establishment management implementation reporting and evaluation of safe and effective IRS campaigns within the context of a locally adapted and sustainable vector control programme in line with the Global vector control response 2017 2030 It provides information according to current WHO recommendations and standards on IRS and recognizes that IRS can potentially target multiple diseases in areas where endophilic vectors coexist The key audience for this document is vector borne disease control programme managers and staff as well as implementing or private sector partners at the national provincial state or local levels who are responsible for the design planning or implementation of vector control operations
