It's a little out of line, according to the Montreal City Council, to tell other Canadian municipalities that they should follow their lead. "We're not in a position to tell other municipalities what to do," says Mayor Jean Duceppe. "We're just saying that we've found a way to do it that works for us." The council also says that the city's decision to open up the market to private companies is a "good example" for other municipalities to follow. "We're not saying that we're the only ones who can do it," says Duceppe. "We're just saying that we've found a way to do it that works for us."
