Nondestructive Evaluation of Wood Forest Service (U S), Forest Products Laboratory (U S), Robert J. Ross, 2015 Nature s engineering of wood through genetics wind and weather creates a wide variability in wood as a material Consequently manufacture and users of wood products are frequently frustrated in dealing with the forest resource. Manufacturers sometimes argue that wood is difficult to consistently process into quality products because of the wide range of properties that exist in this raw material. Users of wood products can be equally frustrated with the performance variability found in finished products. Nondestructive evaluation (NDE) technologies have contributed significantly toward eliminating the cause of these frustrations. NDE technologies have been developed and are currently used in lumber and veneer grading programs that result in engineered materials that have consistent well-defined performance characteristics. This brief volume explores some of the processes that are used to manufacture wood, including green wood technology, and provides a bit of history to wood production and its uses too. The Handbook of International Crisis Communication Research Andreas Schwarz, Matthew W. Seeger, Claudia Auer, 2016-04-18. The Handbook of International Crisis Communication Research articulates a broader understanding of crisis communication, discussing the theoretical, methodological, and practical implications of domestic and transnational crises, featuring the work of global scholars from a range of sub-disciplines and related fields. Provides the first integrative international perspective on crisis communication. Articulates a broader understanding of crisis communication which includes work from scholars in journalism, public relations, audience research, psychology, political science, sociology, economics, anthropology, and international communication. Explores the topic from cross-national and cross-cultural crisis communication approaches. Includes research and scholars from countries around the world and representing all regions. Discusses a broad range of crisis types such as war, terrorism, natural disasters, pandemics, and organizational crises.

Beyond the Storms Dane S. Egli, 2014-12-18. This book deals with both actual and potential terrorist attacks on the United States as well as natural disaster preparedness and management in the current era of global climate change. The topics of preparedness, critical infrastructure investments, and risk assessment are covered in detail. The author takes the reader beyond counterterrorism statistics, better first responder equipment, and a fixation on FEMA grant proposals to a holistic analysis and implementation of mitigation, response, and recovery efforts. The recent Oklahoma tornadoes and West Texas storage tank explosion show the unpredictability of disaster patterns, and the Boston Marathon bombings expose the difficulty in predicting and preventing attacks. Egli makes a compelling case for a culture of resilience by asserting a new focus on interagency collaboration, public-private partnerships, and collective action. Building upon the lessons of the 9/11 attacks, Hurricane Katrina, and the Deepwater Horizon oil spill, the basic findings are supported by a creative mix of case studies which include Superstorm Sandy, cascading power outages, GPS and other system vulnerabilities, and Japan's Fukushima disaster with its sobering aftermath. This book will help a new generation of leaders understand the need for smart resilience.

Protecting Seniors Against Environmental Disasters Michael R. Greenberg, 2014-07-11. The baby boom generation were born between 1946 and 1964 and are the largest population cohort in US history. They should number about 90 million by mid century more than doubling their current size The massive increase in seniors and relative decline of those of working age in the US is mirrored in almost all the world s most populous countries This book connects the dots between the US baby boom generation and the marked increase in natural and human caused disasters It evaluates options available to seniors their aids for and not for and for profit organizations and government to reduce vulnerability to hazard events These include coordinated planning risk assessment regulations and guidelines education and other risk management efforts Using interviews with experts cases studies especially of Superstorm Sandy and literature it culls best practice and identify major gaps It is original and successful in making the connection between the growing group of vulnerable US seniors environmental events and risk management practices in order to isolate the most effective lessons learned
