BLIND SPOT

As you travel down either highway, your car is right on the edge of your view called your blind spot. That means light from the object that's in the blind spot can't reach your eyes.

When light reflects off objects, it travels in straight lines and can't go around edges. There are no photoreceptors in the blind spot. That's the hole in the retina where the optic nerve goes out. So even though you're driving with two eyes put together, that hole can't see anything that's in your blind spot.

BLIND SPOT

The steps:

1. On this picture your teacher has provided 4 of a 5, combined with a perpendicular marker. In the corners, there are dots and a star (as shown in the diagram below).
2. Stand this card in your view, read as with a right away, making sure that the star is on the left side.
3. Close your left eye, and look at the star with your right eye. Focus at the star, and notice how the dot in the corner of this dot, slowly moves the card closer to your face.
4. At one point, the dot will disappear and then reappear. This is your blind spot.

ANATOMY OF THE TONGUE

The tongue is a muscular organ in the mouth, and is one of the most important organs in the human body. It is used for speaking, swallowing, and tasting. The tongue is made up of muscle and is covered in a thin layer of mucus. It is attached to the floor of the mouth by a band of tissue called the lingual frenulum. The tongue is divided into two main parts: the body and the root. The body is the larger part and is covered in a rough, bumpy surface called the papillae. The root is the smaller part and is located at the back of the mouth. The tongue is also covered in a network of blood vessels and nerves. The tongue is a very important organ and is essential for many of the body's functions.
