- To wipe excess liquid that may accidentally splash, an absorbent cloth or paper towels should be used.

NOTE: If glass is involved, do not attempt to clean spill by hand. Tweezers, needle holder or another instrument should be used to pick up glass prior to cleaning

Environmental surfaces should be decontaminated with a 1:10 solution of 5.25% sodium hypochlorite in water .

NOTE: These disinfectants are highly caustic unless properly diluted. In addition, disinfectant solution is intended for use on environmental surfaces only, since it can damage instruments and equipment and skin damage.

When there are large spills of cultured or concentrated infectious agents, such as in the clinical laboratory setting, the contaminated area should first be flooded with a liquid disinfectant then physically cleaned and decontaminated with a hospital approved disinfectant. Gloves, gowns, masks, and safety glasses should be worn for cleaning large spills of blood or body fluids.

13.4 Decontamination of Patient Clothing and Personal Belongings:

Patient clothing and personal belongings that become contaminated by blood or body substances should be handled according to the following procedures.

13.4.1 Clothing

Clothing soiled by blood or body substances should be placed in a tightly sealed plastic bag at the patient's bedside and given to the family for home laundering. The family should be instructed to wash the clothing by machine, using a laundry detergent. Hot water and chlorine bleach should also be used unless these agents will damage the items. The plastic bag used to contain the clothing during its transport should be placed in a second plastic bag, tightly sealed, and discarded in the household trash. Persons involved in the handling of contaminated clothing should be instructed to wash their hands thoroughly after handling the items.

13.4.2 Personal Belongings

- Disinfect hard surfaces by wiping the items using a 1:10 solution of 5.25% sodium hypochlorite in water (1 part chlorine bleach to 9 parts water).
- Disposable articles, such as magazines, that are contaminated by blood or body substances should be disposed of according to the hospital's regulated and non-regulated waste policy.

The

Administrative Behavior of Federal Bureau Chiefs Herbert Kaufman, 2011-10-01 Most of the people who keep tabs on the workings of the federal government no matter what the reasons for their interest seem to take for granted the power and autonomy of the chiefs of the bureaus that make up the executive branch Because so much is taken for granted there have not been many studies of what the chiefs actually do day by day Of all the participants in the governmental process who wield or are thought to wield great influence bureau chiefs are among the least examined Believing that he could narrow this gap in the materials on the federal government somewhat Herbert Kaufman set out to report his observations of six bureau chiefs at their jobs in the course of a year The group consisted of the commissioners of the Internal Revenue Service the Customs Service the Food and Drug Administration and the Social Security Administration the chief of the Forest Service and the administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service a set diversified enough to include a wide variety of organizational situations and experiences yet with enough in common to allow comparison and generalization The objective of his research was to describe the chief s activities so as to explain how they exercise their power And he hoped to find out whether they are as powerful as they are said to be From his efforts emerges a detailed picture of the work of the bureau leaders and of their role in their agencies and in the government generally The picture reveals that some of the common beliefs about these officials and perhaps about the system as a whole are not altogether accurate Kaufman traces the implications of his findings for organizing the executive branch for training administrators and for organization theory
