The two intact classes taught by the same instructor were randomly assigned to the anonymous e peer review group and the identifiable e peer review group. The results of the experiment showed that students in the anonymous e peer review group outperformed their counterparts in the identifiable e peer review group on writing performance; students in the anonymous e peer review group provided a greater amount of critical feedback and lower ratings on their peers' writing. No significant differences between the anonymous e peer review group and the identifiable e peer review group were found on student learning satisfaction.

Developing International EFL/ESL Scholarly Writers Donna Bain Butler, 2015-03-30. This study had a research purpose and a pedagogical purpose. Research disclosed the dynamic changing nature of learner internal and learner external variables that influence strategic competence for developing EFL/ESL writers. This competence was found necessary for international graduate students to move from writer centered learning to reader centered communication. The research instruments proved to be practical tools for guiding learners' processes of learning and writing a scholarly paper or article and avoiding plagiarism. The implication for teachers and program administrators is a systematic approach for developing self regulation control in EFL/ESL writing. The first part of the book reports on the mixed methods quantitative and qualitative research. The second part gives an in depth report of the 6 cases used in the research. The third part presents tools for systematically developing self regulation in scholarly and academic writing with a student and teacher checklists for formative assessment that are valid and reliable and a model syllabus for teachers that can be adapted across disciplines and genres. These tools deal with learning strategies and their applications to writing and writing instruction.

Reconstructing Response to Student Writing Dan Melzer, 2023-08-07. In Reconstructing Response to Student Writing Dan Melzer makes the argument that writing instructors should shift the construct so that peer response and student self assessment are more central than teacher response. Presenting the results of a national study of teacher and peer response and student self assessment at institutions of higher education across the United States, Melzer analyzes teacher and peer response to over 1,000 pieces of student writing as well as 128 student portfolio reflection essays He draws on his analysis and on a comprehensive review of the literature on response to introduce a constructivist heuristic for response aimed at both composition instructors and instructors across disciplines Melzer argues that teachers and researchers should focus less on teacher response to individual pieces of student writing and more on engaging in dialogue with student self assessment and peer response focusing on growth and transfer rather than products and grades Reconstructing Response to Student Writing especially when taken together with Melzer's previous book Assignments across the Curriculum provides a comprehensive and large scale view of college writing and responding across the curriculum in the United States
