Robinson,2008-01-01 A Contemporary Autobiography of a Science Educator reminds readers that they teach who they are and understanding who they are is fundamental for meaningful communication and effective classroom instruction The book is for science educators teacher educators and others who wish to examine their own personal and professional identities in the social and cultural contexts in which their lives are embedded Just as teaching can be viewed as relationship with others this contemporary autobiography is situated on the significance of relationship with self As a contemporary autobiography the narrative reveals the author's subjective truths while digging deeply into psychosocial motives of power and intimacy. The book contains stories and reflections from summer work camp experiences, undergraduate college days, teacher preparation episodes, and high school science teaching.
