Duncan, 2015-10-29 This study questions the widely held perception that books as an artistic medium are superior to and more respectable than film or television sometimes considered frivolous and pernicious Criticism of both the big and small screens often obscures their signal accomplishments and the entertainment and insight they provide The author analyzes our distaste for these media and the romanticizing of the printed word that accompanies it and argues that books and films are in fact quite complementary A broad survey of film and TV offerings explores what enacted narratives have taught us about the nature of childhood Le avventure della famiglia Mellops Tomi Ungerer, 2011 Something about the Author Anne Commire, 1973 Series covers individuals ranging from established award winners to authors and illustrators who are just beginning their careers Entries cover personal life career writings and works in progress adaptations additional sources and photographs Gender by the Book Julie Fette, 2024-10-31 Gender by the Book investigates the gender representations that French children's literature transmits to readers today Using an interdisciplinary mixed methods approach this book grounds its literary analysis in a sociohistorical examination of three key institutions libraries book clubs and subscription magazines that circulate reading material to children It shows how French policies cultural beliefs and market forces influence the content of children's literature including tensions between State support for unprofitable artistic endeavors and a belief in children's right to high quality products on the one hand and suspicion of activism as anathema to creativity and fear of losing boy readers on the other. In addition the notion of universalism which asserts that equality is best achieved when society is blind to differences thwarts a diverse and equitable array of literary representations. Nevertheless conditions are favorable for 21st century French children's publishers to offer a robust body of richly entertaining egalitarian literature for children.
