Erneling, David M. Johnson, 2005-01-13 What holds together the various fields that are supposed to constitute the general intellectual discipline that people now call cognitive science In this book Erneling and Johnson identify two problems with defining this discipline First some theorists identify the common subject matter as the mind but scientists and philosophers have not been able to agree on any single satisfactory answer to the question of what the mind is Second those who speculate about the general characteristics that belong to cognitive science tend to assume that all the particular fields falling under the rubric psychology linguistics biology and so on are of roughly equal value in their ability to shed light on the nature of mind This book argues that all the cognitive science disciplines are not equally able to provide answers to ontological questions about the mind but rather that only neurophysiology and cultural psychology are suited to answer these questions However since the cultural account of mind has long been ignored in favor of the neurophysiological account Erneling and Johnson bring together contributions that focus especially on different versions of the cultural account of the mind The Muslim Mind on Trial Abdessalam Yassine, 'Abd al-Salām Yāsīn, 2003 Oswaal NTA CUET (UG) Mock Test Sample Question Papers

Literature and the Metaphoric Universe in the Mind

Nicolae Babuts, 2017-07-05 Nicolae Babuts believes that the study of metaphoric thought and literature can be enriched by the application of recent discoveries from neuroscientific experiments He maintains that metaphors are neither linguistic formations nor conceptual formations but instead the product of association of images and language They are a matter of vision Memory is an essential component in the creation of meaning and is the way the mind receives messages from the outside world In this process of transferring data from the outside world the mind's overriding tendency is to integrate and interpret Thus incoming messages are recognized and given meaning whether they are in harmony with the inner world of the mind or in conflict with it Babuts argues that the literature we read is related to our perception of reality And reality has two identities the physical identity of the outside world and its symbolic identity within memory The symbolic identity of the outside world is represented internally by the metaphoric universe in the mind
