Fluency and Disfluency Across Languages and Language Varieties Liesbeth Degand, Gaëtanelle Gilquin, Laurence Meurant, Anne Catherine Simon, 2019-03-08 Fluency and disfluency are characteristic of online language production and may be signalled by markers such as filled and unfilled pauses discourse markers repeats or self repairs which can be said to reflect ongoing mechanisms of processing and monitoring The Fluency Disfluency across Languages and Language Varieties conference held at the University of Louvain in February 2017 marked the closing of a five year research project dedicated to the multimodal and contrastive investigation of fluency and disfluency in L1 and L2 English French and French Belgian sign language with a focus on variation according to language speaker and genre The closing conference was intended as an opportunity to further expand the range of languages language varieties and genres studied from the dis fluency perspective The selection of papers in this volume reflects the diversity of approaches aiming to uncover the ways in which fluency and disfluency are conceived in language production and comprehension and how they are signalled Topics include methodological challenges in cross linguistic dis fluency research the role of contextual features in professional and non professional settings and the characteristics of fluency and disfluency in second language speech Of particular importance in all contributions is the ambivalent role of pauses discourse markers repeats and other markers which can be both a symptom of encoding difficulties and a sign that the speaker is trying to help the hearer decode the message They should thus be interpreted in context to identify their contribution to fluency and or disfluency which can be viewed as two sides of the same coin topics in Applied Linguistics designed for those entering postgraduate studies and language professionals returning to academic study. The books take an innovative practice to theory approach with a back to front structure which takes the reader from real life problems and issues in the field then enters into a discussion of intervention and how to engage with these concerns. The final section concludes by tying the practical issues to theoretical foundations. Additional features include tasks with commentaries, a glossary of key terms and an annotated further reading section. This book looks particularly at the relationship between language interaction and learning. Providing a comprehensive account of current perspectives on classroom discourse, the book aims to promote a fuller understanding of interaction regarded as being central to effective teaching and introduces the concept of classroom interactional competence (CIC). The case is made in this book for a need not only to describe classroom discourse but to ensure that teachers and learners develop the kind of interactional competence which will result in more engaged dynamic classrooms where learners are actively involved in the learning process. This approach makes an invaluable resource for language teachers as well as students of language and education and language acquisition within the field of applied linguistics.

Multilingual Learners and Academic Literacies Daniella Molle, Edynn Sato, Timothy Boals, Carol A. Hedgspeth, 2015-03-05. Shifting the discourse from a focus on academic language to the more dynamic but less researched construct of academic literacies, this volume addresses three key questions: What constitutes academic literacy? What does academic literacy development in adolescent multilingual students look like and how can this development be assessed? What classroom contexts foster the development of academic literacies in multilingual adolescents? The contributing authors provide divergent definitions of academic literacies and use dissimilar theoretical and methodological approaches to study literacy development. Nevertheless, all chapters reflect a shared conceptual framework for examining academic literacies as situated overlapping meaning-making practices. This framework foregrounds students' participation in valued disciplinary literacy practices. Emphasized in the new college and career readiness standards, the notion of disciplinary practices allows the contributing authors to bridge the language content dichotomy and take a more holistic as well as nuanced view of the demands that multilingual students face in general education classrooms. The volume also explores the implications of the emphasis on academic literacy practices for classroom instruction, research, and policy.
