India's Maritime Strategy provides a unique insight into the Indian Navy tracing its post independence growth and discussing its transformation and future in the 21st century. In the context of the rise of China's maritime power in the Indian Ocean this book provides a nuanced view of the extent and scope of India's maritime reach and the effect of this on Sino Indian competition. Challenging the view that by developing a favourable environment alone India could seek to maintain its balance of power with China it is argued that despite durable bilateral security ties with most regional states India's maritime aspirations to be the primary net security provider for the region are unsustainable in the long term. The Great Music City Andrea Baker, 2019-03-01 In the 1960s as gentrification took hold of New York City Jane Jacobs predicted that the city would become the true player in the global system Indeed in the 21st century more meaningful comparisons can be made between cities than between nations and states Based on case studies of Melbourne Austin and Berlin this book is the first in depth study to combine academic and industry analysis of the music cities phenomenon Using four distinctly defined algorithms as benchmarks it interrogates Richard Florida s creative cities thesis and applies a much needed synergy of urban sociology and musicology to the concept mediated by a journalism lens Building on seminal work by Robert Park Lewis Mumford and Jane Jacobs it argues that journalists are the cultural branders and street theorists whose ethnographic approach offers critical insights into the urban sociability of music activity

Anti-Corruption and its

Discontents Grant W. Walton, 2017-08-03 The fight against corruption is now a core part of development policy and practice. Some call these efforts a war on corruption. What does this so-called war mean for developing countries? And how do international perspectives on corruption relate to local and national concerns? This book examines the relevance of anti-corruption discourse in Papua New Guinea (PNG), one of the most culturally rich and corrupt countries on earth. Despite increased international, national, and local efforts to address corruption over the past two decades, many fear that levels of corruption continue to rise largely unabated. Some believe that the mismatch between international, national, and local assumptions regarding the nature of corruption and how it should be addressed is at the heart of the issue. International anti-corruption initiatives stress zero tolerance and try to strengthen formal state-based institutions. However, many people in PNG are more concerned about maintaining social relationships than following state laws and rules. This book critically examines the implications of the anti-corruption agenda and the collision of international, national, and local perspectives. In doing so, it provides a diagnostic on international assumptions about corruption and how it should be fought in developing countries, offering surprising and important lessons. This book is essential reading for scholars and students of Development Studies, Geography, Political Studies, and Economics, as well as practitioners and policy makers working in development.

Financializations of Development Ève Chiapello, Anita Engels, Eduardo Gonçalves Gresse, 2023-04-20 Financializations of Development brings together cutting-edge perspectives on socio-political, socio-historical, and institutional analyses of the evolving multiple and intertwined financialization processes of developmental institutions, programs, and policies. In recent years, the development landscape has seen a radical transformation in the partaking actors, which have moved beyond just multilateral or bilateral public development banks and aid agencies. The issue of financing for sustainable development is now at the top of the agenda for multilateral development actors. Increasingly, development institutions aim to include private actors and to leverage private money to support development projects. Drawing on case studies conducted in Africa, Asia, Europe, and Latin America, this book examines the ways in which these private finance actors are enrolled and associated with the conception and implementation of development policies. Beginning with a focus on global actors and private foundations, this book considers the ways in which development funding is raised, managed, and distributed, as well as debates at the center of global forums where financialized policies and solutions for development are conceived or discussed. The book assembles empirical research on development programs and demonstrates the social consequences of the financializations of development to the people on the ground. Highlighting the plurality of processes and outcomes of modern-day relations, tools, actors, and practices in financing development around the world, this book is key reading for advanced students, researchers, and practitioners in all areas of finance, development, and sustainability.
