Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this lab, you will be able to:

- Subnet an address space given requirements.
- Assign appropriate addresses to interfaces and document.
- Cable a network according to the Topology Diagram.
- Erase the startup configuration and reload a router to the default state.
- Perform basic configuration tasks on a router.
- Configure and activate Serial and Ethernet interfaces.
- Test and verify configurations.
- Reflect upon and document the network implementation.

Scenario

In this lab activity, you will design and apply an IP addressing scheme for the topology shown in the Topology Diagram. You will be given one class C address that you must subnet to provide a logical addressing scheme for the network. You must first cable the network as shown before the configuration can begin. Once the network is cabled, configure each device with the appropriate basic configuration commands. The routers will then be ready for interface address configuration according to your IP addressing scheme. When the configuration is complete, use the appropriate IOS commands to verify that the network is working properly.

Note: Use classful subnetting for this lab.
