

Building the JavaScript Library

The first step in building the JavaScript library is to create a new file named `library.js` in the `src` directory. This file will contain the code for the library, which will be used by the application.

Next, we need to define the `Library` class. This class will be the base class for all the other classes in the library.

The `Library` class will have a constructor function that takes a single argument, `name`.

The constructor function will set the `name` property of the object to the value of the `name` argument.

The `Library` class will also have a `prototype` property that points to a new object.

This object will have a `constructor` property that points back to the `Library` class.
