The researchers' first aim was to identify whether the intervention was acceptable to young people in Egypt. In November 2011, they conducted focus group discussions with 10 young people (aged 16–19) who were members of the intervention group. The participants were asked to discuss their views on the intervention. They were given a list of questions to discuss, which included: How do you feel about the intervention? What do you like about it? What do you not like about it? What do you think about the intervention? What do you think about the intervention? What do you think about the intervention? The researchers also asked the participants to discuss their views on the intervention. The researchers also asked the participants to discuss their views on the intervention. The researchers also asked the participants to discuss their views on the intervention.
