Translingual Creative Writing Theory, Practice, and Pedagogy Jennifer Quist, 2025-05-15 In a challenge to monolingual Anglophone dominated creative writing workshops this book explores why and how students multilingual backgrounds and lack of fluency with the English language can emerge as assets rather than impediments to artistry and creativity Grounded in the Chinese tradition of Daoism as an ongoing discourse this exploration uses rigorous academic readings of the philosophical text the Zhuangzi as an analytical framework and takes a translingual approach to writing where translation and composition intersect inscribing one language upon another within a single text With concepts that resist expression such as inspiration uncertainty non knowing spontaneity unity forgetting the self and the perfection behind the imperfection of language Jennifer Quist demonstrates how Daoism's theories and metalanguage can re imagine creative writing education whilst de naturalizing the authority of English and Euro American literary traditions With analytical lenses derived from East Asia given context through translations of Chinese educators primary accounts of the history and theory of postsecondary creative writing education in 21st century

China Quist develops a method for examining the practices of exemplary translingual writers from China Japan and their diasporas Featuring translingual writing prompts and practices for individual or classroom use by students at all levels of multilingualism Translingual Creative Writing Theory Practice and Pedagogy opens up the current workshop model and discloses the possibilities of linguistic transcendence for instructors and students With writing strategies based in cross cultural collaboration and balanced with de Anglicization of creative writing pedagogy this book calls to rework the structures methods and metaphors of the workshop and presents ideas for more collaborative collective equitable diverse and inclusive programs

China on Screen Christopher J. Berry, Mary Ann Farquhar, 2006-04-04 In China on Screen Chris Berry and Mary Farquhar leaders in the field of Chinese film studies explore more than one hundred years of Chinese cinema and nation Providing new perspectives on key movements themes and filmmakers Berry and Farquhar analyze the films of a variety of directors and actors including Chen Kaige Zhang Yimou Hou Hsiao Hsien Bruce Lee Jackie Chan Maggie Cheung Gong Li Wong Kar wai and Ang Lee They argue for the abandonment of national cinema as an analytic tool and propose cinema and the national as a more productive framework With this approach they show how movies from China Hong Kong Taiwan and the Chinese diaspora construct and contest different ideas of Chinese nation as empire republic or ethnicity and complicated by gender class style transnationalism and more Among the issues and themes covered are the tension between operatic and realist modes male and female star images transnational production and circulation of Chinese films the image of the good foreigner all related to different ways of imagining nation Comprehensive and provocative China on Screen is a crucial work of film analysis

Shakespearean Perspectives David Lucking, 2017-03-14 David Lucking sees

Shakespeare's plays as negotiating tensions between a number of alternative and sometimes mutually antagonistic perspectives. Some of these perspectives are associated with particular languages, cultures, and texts, while others involve philosophical issues such as the nature of personal ontology and distinctions between reality and dream, being and nothingness. In elaborating his insights, Lucking draws extensive comparisons with Lucretius' De Rerum Natura and between Sophocles' Theban plays and King Lear, and he also pays close attention to A Midsummer Night's Dream, Henry V, Julius Caesar, Hamlet, and Antony and Cleopatra. Re-assessing a wide range of earlier commentary, his nine essays confirm the lasting value of apposite contextualization in tandem with detailed close reading.

Constructing the Past Mark Williams, Stephen Paul Forrest, 2010. Discusses the reactions of seventeenth and eighteenth century writers of Irish history to the unprecedented turbulence of the age. Ireland and the Irish it is often argued have been mired for centuries in mindsets which employ the past in order to trace and justify the enmities of the present. However, as Constructing the Past: Writing Irish History 1600-1800 seeks to underscore, the truth of such interactions with the Irish past is far more complex and dynamic. Spanning two hundred years of history, this book finds a relationship with the past which is as adaptive as it is rigid, as iconoclastic as it is reactionary. Beginning with an Introduction by Roy Foster, this innovative volume incorporates a wide range of perspectives on how history in Ireland has been written and perceived from the early modern period onward. Drawing upon both key moments including the Cromwellian invasion, the 1688 Revolution, and 1798, to name a few, as well as forgotten incidents, each article discusses the ways in which the presentation of the past in Ireland has been forged by the circumstances of its writers and context of those memories. Drawing upon contributions by both highly accomplished and up-and-coming historians of Ireland, Britain, and Europe, Constructing the Past seeks to illuminate how the Irish past has been constructed, torn down, and again rebuilt by the Irish and historians of Ireland alike. STEPHEN PAUL FORREST serves as the Director of Operations for the Lewis and Clark Trail Heritage Foundation. MARK WILLIAMS is currently reading for a Doctorate in Modern European History at Hertford College, Oxford.

A Wargamer's Guide to 1066 and the Norman Conquest Daniel Mersey, 2017-03-30. This is one of the first titles in an exciting new series of guides for wargamers. Taking one of the most pivotal and famous episodes in British military history, it gives a wargamer's perspective of the dramatic events of 1066 and the Norman conquest up to around 1070, and advice on how to recreate these on the gaming table. Advice is given on factors to consider when choosing an appropriate set of commercially available rules, or devising your own, to best suit the scale and style of battle you want, and capture the flavor of the period. The relevant ranges of figures and terrain pieces and buildings are also reviewed. Analysis of the forces involved, organization, tactics, and strategies will help with building your armies, and there are interesting scenarios included. Whether this is a new period for you, or you are looking to refresh your existing interest in the period, this handy guide is sure to hold much of interest for you.

South Asian Folklore in Transition Frank J. Korom, Leah K. Lowthorp, 2020-05-21. The Indian Subcontinent has been at the centre of folklore inquiry since the 19th century yet while much attention was paid to India by early scholars folkloristic interest in the region waned over time until it virtually disappeared from the research agendas of scholars working in the discipline of folklore and folklife This fortunately changed in the 1980s when a newly energized group of younger scholars who were interested in a variety of new approaches that went beyond the textual interface returned to folklore as an untapped resource in South Asian Studies This comprehensive volume further reinvigorates the field by providing fresh studies and new models both for studying the lore and the life of everyday people in the region as well as their engagement with the world at large By bringing Muslims material culture diasporic horizons global interventions and politics to bear on South Asian folklore studies the authors hope to stimulate more dialogue across theoretical and geographical borders to infuse the study of the Indian Subcontinent's cultural traditions with a new sense of relevance that will be of interest not only to areal specialists but also to folklorists and anthropologists in general This book was originally published as a special issue of South Asian History and Culture

Turkey and India in the Shadow of the Great War Burcu Çevik-Compiègne, 2024-12-30 What do Turkey and India have in common Burcu Çevik Compiègne brings sources from two apparently separate contexts into conversation to offer fresh insights into the Great War and its ongoing legacy highlighting the perspectives of people in two post imperial nation states She uses public discourses literature oral histories memorials and other material as entry points into histories of writing overwriting and erasing the shadows of an imperial war The connections and parallels between Turkey and India are traced in the narratives of self and the nation from the war to the present and across the globe all the way to contemporary Australia

Censoring Translation Michelle Woods, 2012-05-10 A play is written faces censorship and is banned in its native country There is strong international interest the play is translated into English it is adapted and it is not performed Censoring Translation questions the role of textual translation practices in shaping the circulation and reception of foreign censored theatre It examines three forms of censorship in relation to translation ideological censorship gender censorship and market censorship This examination of censorship is informed by extensive archival evidence from the previously unseen archives of Václav Havel's main theatre translator Vera Blackwell which includes drafts of playscripts legal negotiations reviews interviews notes and previously unseen correspondence over thirty years with Havel and central figures of the theatre world such as Kenneth Tynan Martin Esslin and Tom Stoppard Michelle Woods uses this previously unresearched archive to explore broader questions on censorship asking why texts are translated at a given time who translates them how their identity may affect the translation and how the constituents of success in a target culture may involve elements of censorship
