Extraterritorial Matthew Hart, 2020-08-25 The future of fiction is neither global nor national Instead Matthew Hart argues it is trending extraterritorial Extraterritorial spaces fall outside of national borders but enhance state power They cut across geography and history but do not point the way to a borderless new world They range from the United Nations headquarters and international waters to CIA black sites and the departure zones at international airports The political geography of the present Hart shows has come to resemble a patchwork of such spaces Hart reveals extraterritoriality s centrality to twenty first century art and fiction He shows how extraterritorial fictions expose the way states construct global space in their own interests Extraterritorial novels teach us not to mistake cracks or gradations in political geography for a crisis of the state Hart demonstrates how the unstable character of many twenty first century aesthetic forms can be traced to the increasingly extraterritorial nature of contemporary political geography Discussing writers such as Margaret Atwood J G Ballard Amitav Ghosh Chang rae Lee Hilary Mantel and China Mi ville as well as artists like Hito Steyerl and Mark Wallinger Hart combines lively critical readings of contemporary novels with historical and theoretical discussions about sovereignty globalization cosmopolitanism and postcolonialism Extraterritorial presents a new theory of literature that explains what happens when dreams of an open connected world confront the reality of mobile elastic and tenacious borders bestows on mankind Demonstrates that Islam and Islamic law can make a vital contribution to the protection of human rights worldwide Freed from European colonial tutelage and representing almost a billion souls grouped in approximately forty states the Muslims have entered the international scene without really having any other choice but to imitate the existing institutions or to accept provisions in which they historically speaking have had no participation Nevertheless the process of modernization has not lured the Muslims away from the remembrance of a glorious heritage On the contrary wherever the movement of Westernization has been too brutal it has run into a religious challenge Islam thus reappeared as one of the grand moral and political forces of the contemporary world Humanism in Islam has not been drafted only out of sympathy for the Muslims but also on account of historical evidence Islamic civilization was the first to outline clear and mandatory provisions for protecting the destiny of man and society and for creating order in the ties between peoples As to its general character this work attempts to encourage a certain Western public to abandon its ethnocentrism in order to better understand the legitimate aspirations expressing themselves sometimes in chaos of the present day Muslims      The
