Energy Consumption and Aging Populations Shigeru Matsumoto, 2025-02-21 This book explores the impact of population aging on energy use patterns in society from both a theoretical and an empirical angle with a specific focus on Japan and Spain Many developed countries are currently experiencing both population aging and population decline while the demand for social services such as health care and public transportation is expected to increase This book expands upon these well known socioeconomic challenges and explores the less well known and more complex relationship between population aging time allocation to social practices and energy resource consumption In the face of energy supply scarcity and climate change concerns the impact of population aging on energy consumption is of paramount importance By focusing on the effects of changing time allocation patterns on social practices the book shows that the impact of population aging on energy consumption will affect not just only affect the residential sector but also other socio economic sectors of society Using data from Japan and Spain currently among the fastest aging countries in the world the volume shows that the challenges of an aging society are far more complex and worrying than previously anticipated If an aging society is an inevitable future we need to prepare for the challenges that lie ahead Written by researchers in the fields of demography economics environmental engineering geography physics and transportation engineering this book will compel academics and policy makers to reflect on these problems and act

Mapping Partition Hannah Fitzpatrick, 2024-03-26 MAPPING PARTITION A hugely productive partnership between geography and history Mapping Partition does a great service to the field of Partition studies it leaves us in no doubt about both the long term cartographical processes that contributed to how South Asia was divided in 1947 and the importance of bringing a geographer's insights to bear on this complex history of boundary making Professor Sarah Ansari Professor of History South Asia Royal Holloway University of London Fitzpatrick produces spatial readings of partition's knowledge formations geopolitical imaginaries administrative cartography and legal geographical expertise These enrich the histories and geographies of partition through painstaking archival textual and visual analysis which will resonate far beyond historical geography and South Asian studies Professor Stephen Legg Professor of Historical Geography University of Nottingham Mapping Partition delivers the first in depth geographical account of the partition of India and Pakistan in 1947 The book explores the impact of colonial geography and geographers on the boundary both during the partition process and in the period preceding it Drawing on extensive archival research Hannah Fitzpatrick argues that colonial geographical knowledge underpinned the partition process in heretofore unacknowledged ways The author also discusses the consequences of placing different ethnic communal and linguistic groups onto the colonial map and the growing importance of majority and minority populations in representative democratic politics Mapping Partition Politics Territory and the End of Empire in India and Pakistan is required reading for students and researchers studying geography colonial and imperial history South Asian studies and interdisciplinary border studies
