How it works

The endocrine system works with the nervous system to control and regulate cellular activities in the body, and hormones

- Endocrine glands release hormones into the bloodstream to regulate metabolic activities throughout the body
- Each hormone has a specific function in the body and has its own specific target cells
- Each hormone is secreted by the endocrine system

1. Each hormone specifically binds to a target cell
2. A target cell has receptors on their cell membrane designed to respond to that specific hormone
3. When the hormone binds to the receptor, the receptor sends a "lock and key" mechanism
4. After the hormone binds to the cell receptor, a chemical chain of events occurs, leading to a hormone response

Effectors - target organs or glands that respond to hormones, producing a response

ENDOCRINE VS. EXOCRINE GLANDS

Endocrine glands - glands that secrete hormones directly into the bloodstream. Examples include the hypothalamus, pituitary, thyroid, parathyroid, adrenal, pancreas, and gonads.

Exocrine glands - glands that secrete substances through ducts to the outside of the body or into body cavities. Examples include the salivary glands, sweat glands, and the digestive system.
