Lee,1996-12-31 Volume 4 of Biomembranes covers endocytosis exocytosis and related processes A major role of the plasma membrane is as a permeability barrier keeping the inside of the cell inside and the outside outside. Mechanisms must then exist to allow movement of material between the cell and its environment. One mechanism for export from the cell is by exocytosis, a process in which the membranes of secretory vesicles fuse with the plasma membrane, releasing the contents of the vesicle into the extracellular medium. The process has been studied in particular depth for the release of neurotransmitters at the synapse. Import into the cell is possible by the process of receptor-mediated endocytosis, in which selected plasma membrane proteins are internalized when these proteins are receptors for macromolecules; the result is uptake of the macromolecule. Transferring the low-density lipoprotein and asialoglycoproteins are all taken up into cells in this way. Phagocytosis, the ingestion of cells and cell fragments by neutrophils and macrophages, also involves receptors on the phagocytic membrane, of which the best studied are those for the Fc domain of IgG for the third component of complement and for the mannose-fructose carbohydrates. Protection of a host against infection can also be achieved by damaging the integrity of the plasma membrane of the invading organism. This is the strategy evolved by the cytotoxic T lymphocytes which produce a pore-forming toxin, perforin.

Volume 4 of Biomembranes explores the structures and mechanisms involved in these biologically and medically important processes. Structure and Assembly J.E. Hesketh, I.F. Pryme, 1995-11-23. This volume of the treatise deals with structural aspects of the cytoskeleton, the characteristics of the filaments and their components, the organization of the genes, motor proteins, interactions with membranes.

Exocytosis and Endocytosis Andrei I. Ivanov, 2008. In this book, skilled experts provide the most up-to-date step-by-step laboratory protocols for examining molecular machinery and biological functions of exocytosis and endocytosis in vitro and in vivo. The book is insightful to both newcomers and seasoned professionals. It offers a unique and highly practical guide to versatile laboratory tools developed to study various aspects of intracellular vesicle trafficking in simple model systems and living organisms.

Exocytosis is a fundamental cellular process that is used by eukaryotic cells to release a variety of biological compounds, including peptide hormones and neurotransmitters, or to insert specific lipids and proteins in the plasma membrane. In recent years, a multidisciplinary approach promoted an extraordinary progress in the understanding of the molecular mechanisms regulating exocytosis. This led to the discovery of a large number of components belonging to the machinery that governs the fusion of secretory vesicles with plasma membranes in different cell systems, including neuronal and endocrine cells. The basic machinery required for vesicle fusion turned out to be well conserved through evolution from yeast to man. So far, because of the large number of components involved, understanding of the molecular basis of exocytosis has remained the privilege of a relatively small group of specialists. This book, written by recognized experts in the field, aims at clarifying for a non-specialist audience the role of the key players in the exocytotic process not only in neuronal and endocrine cells but also in a variety of other relevant cell systems The book represents a unique collection of up to date reviews that will introduce researchers and students to the forefront of this rapidly moving and fascinating field     Endocytosis and Exocytosis in Host Defence Lars Edebo,L.
