

Ready for your Module 4 DBA? Make sure that you can answer the following questions before attempting your DBA. I look forward to speaking with you!

What is an adaptation?

It's the characteristics or functions and behaviors of natural selection.

How does the environment influence adaptations?

Environments are constantly changing and the population's characteristics are constantly being tested. Organisms that cannot survive for a long time will die. For example, the giraffe's long neck is an adaptation that allows it to reach the leaves of the acacia tree. If the leaves are not available, the giraffe will starve. The giraffe's long neck is an adaptation that allows it to reach the leaves of the acacia tree. If the leaves are not available, the giraffe will starve.

How do adaptations help an organism survive?

What is natural selection?

Natural selection is the process by which organisms that are better adapted to their environment survive and reproduce. Natural selection is the process by which organisms that are better adapted to their environment survive and reproduce. Natural selection is the process by which organisms that are better adapted to their environment survive and reproduce.

What are the 4 conditions required for natural selection?

There are four conditions required for natural selection: 1. Variation: There must be variation in the population. 2. Heritability: The traits must be passed on to the next generation. 3. Struggle for existence: There must be a struggle for existence. 4. Differential survival and reproduction: Some individuals must survive and reproduce more than others.
