This extract focuses on the reasons for Lenin's New Economic Policy.

In March 1921 Lenin announced the end of War Communism and the inauguration of a New Economic Policy. The NEP was based on the following:

Requisitions from peasants were ended and a fixed tax in kind (grain) was substituted – which by 1924 had become a money tax. Once this tax was paid, the peasant was free to do what he liked with what remained. He could use it himself, sell it to the state or sell it on the open market which was now made legal. Private enterprise was allowed in trade and small-scale industry. Compulsory labour ceased; labour armies were stopped; bonuses were introduced for extra work. The currency was back on a sound footing and a regular system of taxation was introduced. Large-scale industry (coal, iron, steel, oil, electricity, railways) remained state-owned.

1.3 Refer to Source C.

1.3.1 Explain in your own words how Lenin's New Economic Policy was implemented.

(3)

The New Economic Policy was a drastic adaptation to the war communist policy, which allowed for a free market, private trade and enterprise. Private trade was no longer illegal, or government centralised. People paid a portion of their goods or income in the form of tax and were permitted to sell the rest on the open market. This stimulated the economy and encouraged economic growth.

1.3.2 In what ways was the New Economic Policy different to Lenin's ideal of a communist state? Support your answer with evidence from the source.

A communist state is one in which all individuals are equal. Under the NEP certain individuals profited more than others, which is a distinctly capitalist feature. This automatically created a sense of inequality and reduced the government's power and influence.

1.3.3 What was Lenin's intention for the state in creating the New Economic Policy?

It was Lenin's intention to recover the economy and to suppress peasant unrest, while still providing for the needs of the government.

Why Learn History (When It's Already on Your Phone) Sam Wineburg, 2018-09-17 A look at how to teach history in the age of easily accessible but not always reliable information Let's start with two truths about our era that are so inescapable as to have become clichés We are surrounded by more readily available information than ever before And a huge percent of it is inaccurate Some of the bad info is well meaning but ignorant Some of it is deliberately deceptive All of it is pernicious With the Internet at our fingertips what's a teacher of history to do In Why Learn History When It's Already on Your Phone professor Sam Wineburg has the answers beginning with this We can't stick to the same old read the chapter answer the question snoozefest If we want to educate citizens who can separate fact from fake we have to equip them with new tools Historical thinking Wineburg shows has nothing to do with the ability to memorize facts Instead it's an orientation to the world that cultivates reasoned skepticism and counters our tendency to confirm our biases Wineburg lays out a mine filled landscape but one that with care attention and awareness we can learn to navigate The future of the past may rest on our Political Silence Sophia Dingli, Thomas N. Cooke, 2018-11-12 The notion of silence in Politics and International Relations has come to imply the absence of voice in political life and as such tends to be scholastically prescribed as the antithesis of political power and political agency However from Emma Gonz les s three minutes of silence as part of her address at the March for Our Lives to Trump s attempts to silence the investigation into his campaign s alleged collusion with Russia along with the continuing revelations articulated by silence breakers of sexual harassment it is apparent that there are multiple meanings and functions of political silence all of which intersect at the nexus of power and agency Dingli and Cooke present a complex constellation of engagements that challenge the conceptual limitations of established approaches to silence by engaging with diverse cross disciplinary analytical perspectives on silence and its political implications in the realms of environmental politics diplomacy digital privacy radical politics the politics of piety commemoration international organization and international law among others Contributors to this edited collection chart their approaches to the relationship between silence power and agency thus positing silence as a productive modality of agency While this collection promotes intellectual and interdisciplinary synergy around critical thinking and research regarding the intersections of silence power and agency it is written for scholars in politics international relations theory international political theory critical theory and everything in between

The Vermont Brigade in the Seven Days Paul G. Zeller, 2019-01-03 The Vermont Brigade sometimes referred to as the First Vermont Brigade or the Old Brigade fought its first full brigade engagement in the Seven Days battles The leaders as well as the rank and file were inexperienced in warfare but through sheer grit and determination they made a name for themselves as one of the hardest fighting units in the Army of the Potomac Using soldiers letters diaries and service and pension records this book gives a soldier s eye view of the Virginia summer heat days of marching with very little rest or nourishment and the fear and exhilaration of combat Also included are the stories of 29 men that were wounded or killed and how the tragedies affected their families
