predicated on an evolving internal process of continental integration. In particular, there are normative and policy efforts to revive the spirit of Pan Africanism. The 21st century is witnessing the evolution of Pan Africanism notably through the constitution and establishment of the African Union (AU). Given the fact that there is a dearth of analysis on this phenomenon, this volume will also interrogate the notion of Pan Africanism through various lenses notably peace and security, development, the environment and trade. The volume will also engage with the emerging role of the AU as an international actor e.g. with regard to its role in the reform of the United Nations Security Council, climate change, the International Criminal Court (ICC), the treaty establishing Africa as a nuclear free zone, Internally Displaced Persons, the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs), international trade, the environment, public health issues, security and development issues. This book will assess how the AU's role as an international actor is complicated by the difficulty of promoting consensus among African states and then maintaining that consensus in the face of often divergent national interests. This book will in part assess the role of the AU in articulating collective and joint policies and in making interventions in international decision and policy making circles. The Handbook will also assess the role of African social movements and their relationship with global actors. The role of African citizens in ameliorating their own conditions is often underplayed in the international relations discourse and this volume will seek to redress this oversight. Throughout the book, the various chapters will also assess the role that these citizen linkages have contributed towards continental integration and in confronting the challenges of globalization.
