

SECTION A: COMPREHENSION

QUESTION 1 – 30 marks

Read both Text A and Text B and answer the set questions.

TEXT A

- Questions that the 'World Cup-winning Springboks' captain Siya Kolisi answered – some pretty unexpectedly – in his inspirational autobiography, Rise.
- South African rugby player Siya Kolisi proves to be an inspiration on and off the pitch. He's the first Black man to lead his country's rugby team in more than 126 years. From humble beginnings to international stardom, Kolisi's life shows the power of achieving a positive mindset.
- Here are questions we got answered from Kolisi's autobiography, Rise:
  - Who was the person that set him on the path to glory?
  - Kolisi makes no bones about it. "Without her, I wouldn't be here. That's not a figure of speech," Kolisi explains, talking about his grandmother Nkulamile, who brought him up in the township of Zwelinde in the Eastern Cape city of Port Elizabeth. A remarkable woman, she was the 'positive, loving, supportive and protective' influence in the toughest of times. She would even go without food herself to ensure Kolisi had enough to stave off his terrible hunger. She sadly died in his arms but will always be in his heart.
  - What was his first sporting triumph?
  - Kolisi began playing street soccer as a kid and loved playing goalie, chucking himself about on the hard, compacted earth of a makeshift dirt pitch, guarding goalposts made of bricks. He and his team-mates would share a grand prize of five rands (that's about 25 pence or 30 cents between them) when they won a 'tournament' against kids from another street in the township. They would then buy piles of vetkoeks – pieces of dough filled with sausage and cheese – as their real prize. As often as not, though, he recalled, it wouldn't end with a trophy, but a beating for breaking a window.
  - What first attracted him to rugby?
  - A dazzling try? A thumping tackle? No, what first wooed this wide-eyed four-year-old kid was watching the colossal Jonah Lomu and his New Zealand All Blacks performing their famed and ferocious pre-match challenge, the Haka, at the 2003 World Cup. "To me, it was just another cool dance with lots of chanting, thigh-slapping and eye-rolling, and I'd practice it with my friends in the day and perform it for my dad when he came home from work every evening," reckoned Kolisi.

10. What was the moment that changed his life?

11. Kolisi recalled how his life could so easily have turned a different, more treacherous corner as he got increasingly involved in drug-taking and petrol sniffing with other boys in the township. "I could have ended up a tsoi and from there, you only have two real options: jail or death. Or both," he reflected. Yet a training session for a local rugby team called the African Bombers, overseen by a shouting, terrifying, but inspirational coach called Eric Songqidi, proved an epiphany. "I finished that session exhausted, bruised and bleeding, but I walked home on cloud nine. It was the most awesome thing I'd ever done. From that first session, I never looked back, and I never smoked weed or sniffed petrol again," Kolisi remembered.

12. Who was his first hero?

13. After Kolisi received a life-changing bursary to attend Grey High School in Port Elizabeth, he watched the mighty Springboks come to train there, headed by Schalk Burger. "He was my hero, not just because I was a back row like him, but because I love the way he played. He was everywhere, dirty blond hair flying as he threw himself into tackles, cleared out rucks and ran the hard yards in the tight channels," he remembered. He was too shy initially even to ask Burger for his autograph, but a teacher shoved a pen and a piece of paper in his hand, telling him not to return until he'd got the signature that, to this day, remains one of his prized possessions. "If you'd told me then that one day Schalk would be not just my team-mate but also my friend, I'd have thought you'd lost your mind," reckoned Kolisi.
