Music Lesson Plans for Social Justice Lisa C. DeLorenzo, Marissa Silverman,2022 Teaching Music for Social Justice offers a fresh innovative approach to teaching general music This book is a timely collection of lesson plans and units that artfully blend music making with relevant issues of social justice. Particularly accessible to middle and high school classroom music teachers, it includes a companion website with links to all of the music listening and videos. Authors Lisa C. DeLorenzo and Marissa Silverman, accomplished music educators with extensive careers thinking about the relationship between music education and social justice, have composed student-centered lessons with thoughtful discussion prompts, experiences with diverse genres and styles of music, and technology-integrated music-making projects that will activate students' creativity and empathy. Unit topics ranging from War to Climate Change include cross-disciplinary lessons with the arts playing a central role in developing understanding. Well-researched introductory materials, as well as how-to guides for topics such as composing in the classroom, make the text especially practical and approachable. This book is an essential resource with ready-to-go lessons and classroom materials. Music teachers will now have a unique new lens for engaging students in purposeful music making toward social justice.

Genre-Based Strategies to Promote Critical Literacy in Grades 4-8
 Danielle E. Hartsfield, Sue C. Kimmel, 2019-10-21. Draws on critical and radical change theory to equip both aspiring and practicing library and teacher candidates with practical, research-based ideas for enacting critical literacy practices in middle-grade libraries and classrooms. Genre-Based Strategies to Promote Critical Literacy in Grades 4-8 provides strategies and lesson plans with additional resources and tools for school librarians and teachers to engage middle-grade students in reading children's literature through a critical literacy lens. To be critically literate readers and thinkers, students must learn to question what they read, asking themselves who wrote the text, why the text was written, and how the text positions its readers and others. Teaching students how to read from a critical literacy stance is a timely and relevant practice in a world in which text is available instantly and on nearly any mobile device. In many cases, preparation programs for school librarians and teachers do not teach candidates how to incorporate critical literacy practices in library and classroom settings. This book provides both pre-service and in-service school librarians and teachers with that professional development and guidance for teaching critical literacy in children's literature courses.

When We Hear Them Owen Silverman
 Andrews, Antione D. Tomlin, 2024-06-01. This book puts forward practical tools and applicable theories for enhancing the listening skills and pedagogical approaches of teachers and educators in the context of language-minoritized and multilingual learners. What does it mean for us to really hear them? How can we more fully facilitate inviting, celebratory, and sustaining learning spaces? What listening skills should the faculty who prepare pre-service teachers for linguistically diverse classrooms impart? By asking these questions, we seek to upend deficit models of language learning and usage in order to attune practitioner-scholars to the powerful voices of language-diverse students in our classrooms, schools, and communities. This book is organized into three parts to help practitioner-scholars explore the space where theory meets practice to amplify the voices of language-minoritized learners.

ENDORSEMENT Listening is a thread that runs through this fine book. Offering an expansive view of language teaching in the US and across the globe, this engaging volume raises questions, explores dilemmas, and offers concrete ideas for both practitioners and scholars for listening and teaching In addition to traditional research studies this volume brings the voices and lives of the teachers and their commitments to equity and justice into the center of the writing often providing exquisite and touching stories about teaching and learning This book calls upon our curiosity and our humanity encouraging critical reflection and action Kathy Schultz University of Colorado
