Text Analysis

PROBLEM AND SOLUTION

Tell students that authors of literary texts often use a problem-and-solution structure to organize a story. The first step authors take in establishing this structure is to describe the problem. Readers can look at details in the story to learn more about the problem. Provide the Web 8 graphic organizer on p. 1843.

MODEL

I know that the main problem the Scientist Squid is investigating is sick porpoises and that the squid learns more about the problem from Professor Q. I can look at pages 4–6 for more details about the problem. I will write the main problem in the center of the Web 8 and the details around it.

[C] READING QUICK CHECK

PRACTICE/APPLY

Have students work independently or in small groups to complete the graphic organizer. Use the Small Group Discussion Routine on pp. 186–187 to have students discuss the details and examples from the text that support their ideas. Check understanding by asking students to share or by circulating among students or groups.

SMALL GROUPS 30 –40 Minutes

(Focused Independent Reading, Small Group Options, Reading Analysis Extension)

Focused Independent Reading

Today's Process Focus:

Engagement and Identity

Have students record their reading in a daily reading log. They should write whether they are enjoying their book, describe why, and note the title, author, and pages they read.

Today's Strategy Focus:

Comprehension

Have students review with you the sticky notes they placed in their book. Ask them to explain how those details helped them understand more about the problems or solutions and the structure of the story. Alternatively, have students log into Pearson Realize and review with you the Independent Reading Activity they completed for their book.

Small Group Options

- [C] PHONICS
- [C] UNLOCK THE TEXT
- [C] CONFERENCE
- [C] CLOSE READING SUPPORT
- [C] READING ANALYSIS EXTENSION
- [C] FLUENCY

Reading Analysis Extension

Have students read the first paragraph on p. 5 and explain how they learn what the problem is. Then turn to pp. 6–7, and have students look for information about the sick porpoises. Ask questions to help them identify descriptions of the porpoises and what might happen if the problem isn't solved. Have students use words from the text to complete their Web 8. Then ask students to identify the steps that are being taken to solve the problem.
