Geography Paper 2 Grade 12 September 2013:

Beyond Energy Jacopo Maria Pepe, 2017-11-22 Jacopo Maria Pepe examines the rapid development of non energy transport infrastructure in the broader Eurasian space. By doing so the author considers the ongoing structural transformation of the Eurasian continent against the backdrop of deepening commercial interconnectivity in Eurasia into broader areas of trade supported by the rapid development of rail connectivity. He frames this process in a long wave historical analysis and considers in detail the geopolitical, geo economic and theoretical implications of deepening physical connectivity for the relationships among China, Russia, Central Asia and the European Union. Toward a Healthier

Garden State Michael R. Greenberg, Dona Schneider, 2023-04-22 This book uses the past fifty years of New Jersey history as a case study to illustrate just how much public policy decisions and other upstream factors can affect the health of a state's citizens. It reveals New Jersey's most detrimental decisions but also considers how the state has developed some of the nation's most innovative responses to public health challenges. Teacher Education in Professional Learning Communities

Xuefeng Huang, 2018-06-20 This book explores the unique experiences of a sister school network in Canada and China contextualized through the lens of the Reciprocal Learning Project which supports the relationship between a school network and teacher education exchange program of two countries. Huang uses theoretical viewpoints from teacher learning and comparative education research to analyse and interpret what has happened in the emerging cross cultural school network. The book juxtaposes teacher learning and comparative education research from Shanghai and Ontario as teachers in the two places interact and provides detailed descriptions of teacher collaboration to show how these collaborations were initiated, developed and sustained as well as the impact brought about from these collaborations. The book offers a unique opportunity to examine how Canadian and Chinese teachers receive and react to opportunities of cross cultural collaboration and learning. Rare Earth Frontiers

Julie M. Klinger, 2018-01-15 Rare Earth Frontiers is a work of human geography that serves to demystify the powerful elements that make possible the miniaturization of electronics, green energy and medical technologies and essential telecommunications and defense systems. Julie Michelle Klinger draws attention to the fact that the rare earths we rely on most are as common as copper or lead and this means the implications of their extraction are global. Klinger excavates the rich historical origins and ongoing ramifications of the quest to mine rare earths in ever more impossible places. Klinger writes about the devastating damage to lives and the environment caused by the exploitation of rare earths. She demonstrates in human terms how scarcity myths have been conscripted into diverse geopolitical campaigns that use rare earth mining as a pretext to capture spaces that have historically fallen beyond the grasp of centralized power. These include legally and logistically forbidding locations in the Amazon, Greenland and Afghanistan and on the Moon. Drawing on ethnographic archival and interview data gathered in local languages and offering possible solutions to the problems it documents, this book examines the production of the rare earth frontier as a place, a concept and a zone of contestation sacrifice and transformation Access, Quality, and the Global Learning Crisis Sarah Kabay,2021 The global learning crisis is one of the most critical challenges facing the world today Through a case study of over 400 schools and communities in Uganda this book presents evidence that challenges the key assumption that there is a trade off between access and quality in improving basic education around the world A University Education David Willetts,2017-11-17 Universities have a crucial role in the modern world In England entrance to universities is by nation wide competition which means English universities have an exceptional influence on schools a striking theme of the book This important book first investigates the university as an institution and then tracks the individual on their journey to and through university In A University Education David Willetts presents a compelling case for the ongoing importance of the university both as one of the great institutions of modern society and as a transformational experience for the individual The book also makes illuminating comparisons with higher education in other countries especially the US and Germany Drawing on his experience as UK Minister for Universities and Science from 2010 to 2014 the author offers a powerful account of the value of higher education and the case for more expansion He covers controversial issues in which he was involved from access for disadvantaged students to the introduction of 9 000 fees The final section addresses some of the big questions for the future such as the the relationship between universities and business especially in promoting innovation He argues that the two great contemporary trends of globalisation and technological innovation will both change the university significantly This is an authoritative account of English universities setting them for the first time in their new legal and regulatory framework Content-Based Curriculum for Advanced Learners Joyce VanTassel-Baska,Catherine A. Little,2023-01-23 The fourth edition of Content Based Curriculum for Advanced Learners provides readers with a complete and up to date introduction to core elements of curriculum development in gifted education with implications for school based implementation Written by key experts in the field this text is essential to the development of high powered rich and complex curricula that treat content process product and concept development considerations as equal partners in the task of educating gifted learners Along with revised chapters this edition contains new chapters on culturally responsive curriculum the performing arts robotics and engineering design as well as social and emotional learning Additional material concerning talent trajectories across the lifespan accompanies a discussion of honors curriculum in higher education rounding out this comprehensive resource This master text is a must read for educators interested in executing effective curriculum and instructional interventions to support learning for gifted and advanced learners Language Rights in a Changing China Alexandra Grey,2021-05-10 China has had constitutional minority language rights for decades but what do they mean today Answering with nuance and empirical detail this book examines the rights through a sociolinguistic study of Zhuang the language of China s largest minority group The analysis traces language policy from the Constitution to local government practices investigating how Zhuang language rights are experienced as opening or restricting socioeconomic opportunity The study finds that language rights do not challenge ascendant marketised and mobility focused language ideologies which ascribe low value to Zhuang. However, people still value a Zhuang identity validated by government policy and practice. Rooted in a Bourdieusian approach to language power and legal discourse, this is the first major publication to integrate contemporary debates in linguistics about mobility, capitalism and globalization into a study of China's language policy. The book refines Grey's award-winning doctoral dissertation which received the Joshua A. Fishman Award in 2018. The judges said the study decenters all types of sociolinguistic assumptions. It is a thought-provoking work on minority rights and language politics relevant beyond China.

Making College Work Harry J. Holzer, Sandy Baum, 2017-08-15. Practical solutions for improving higher education opportunities for disadvantaged students. Too many disadvantaged college students in America do not complete their coursework or receive any college credential while others earn degrees or certificates with little labor market value. Large numbers of these students also struggle to pay for college and some incur debts that they have difficulty repaying. The authors provide a new review of the causes of these problems and offer promising policy solutions. The circumstances affecting disadvantaged students stem both from issues on the individual side such as weak academic preparation and financial pressures and from institutional failures. Low-income students disproportionately attend schools that are underfunded and have weak performance incentives contributing to unsatisfactory outcomes for many students. Some solutions including better financial aid or academic supports target individual students. Other solutions such as stronger linkages between coursework and the labor market and more structured paths through the curriculum are aimed at institutional reforms. All students and particularly those from disadvantaged backgrounds also need better and varied pathways both to college and directly to the job market beginning in high school. We can improve college outcomes but must also acknowledge that we must make hard choices and face difficult tradeoffs in the process. While no single policy is guaranteed to greatly improve college and career outcomes, implementing a number of evidence-based policies and programs together has the potential to improve these outcomes substantially. British Columbia's Borders in Globalization Nicole Bates-Eamer, Helga Kristín Hallgrímsdóttir, 2021-11-24. This book is a case study collection examining the influences and functions of British Columbia's BC borders in the 21st century. British Columbia's Borders in Globalization examines bordering processes and the causes and effects of borders in the Cascadian region from the perspective of BC. The chapters cover diverse topics including historical border disputes and cannabis culture and identity, the governance of transboundary water flows, migration and preclearance policies for goods and people, and the emerging issue of online communities. The case studies provide examples that highlight the simultaneous but contradictory trends regarding borders in BC while boundaries and bordering processes at the external borders shift away from the territorial boundary lines. Self-determination, local politics and cultural identities re-inscribe internal boundaries and borders that are both virtual and real. Moreover, economic protectionism, racial discourses and xenophobic narratives driven by

advances in technology reinforce the territorial dimensions of borders These case studies contribute to the literature challenging the notion that territorial borders are sufficient for understanding how borders function in BC and in a few instances they illustrate the nuanced ways in which borders or bordering processes are becoming detached from territory The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Borderlands Studies Local Experiences of Mining in Peru Gerardo Castillo Guzmán, 2020-02-05 This book uses a multimethod approach to examine local experience of contemporary mining development in the Peruvian Andes creating an understanding of the transformations that rural societies experience in this context Mining is a major component of economic growth in many resource endowed countries whilst also causing mixed social cultural and environmental effects Most current literature on contemporary mining in Peru is largely focussed on conflict however in this text the author takes a differing approach by examining the experiences of families in the vicinity of Rio Tinto s La Granja exploration copper project Northern Peru an area with great significance due to the mining investment and development which has taken place over the past 25 years The book first provides a critical discussion about production of space theories and debates on spatial mobility highlighting their relevance to understanding large scale mining developments especially in the Peruvian Andes The following chapters analyze spatial transformations mining development has prompted focusing on four axes access to space production mobility and representations of space A comprehensive narrative is constructed drawing on diverse voices and perspectives including those of family heads and their partners local leaders company employees and social scientists The book concludes by discussing how the findings challenge some of the current accounts of the social effects of mining development on rural communities and pose significant implications for sustainable development programs and place based practices By taking an interdisciplinary approach this book will appeal to a wide audience including geographers social anthropologists and social scientists interested in the social effects of mining as well as researchers interested in current Latin American Studies and Rural Development The Power of Not Thinking Simon Roberts, 2022-09-12 Details the role our body plays in how we learn and how we can tap into our body s knowledge to excel in all facets of life Ask someone to point to the part of their body responsible for their intelligence and it is highly likely that they will point at their head This assumption is understandable given that for centuries from Descartes cogito ergo sum to the computer age this is what we have been told to think And yet we all share common experiences that have revealed the incomparable power of not thinking Have you ever struggled to remember your pin number only to hold your fingers out and type it correctly with your hands played the piano without focusing on remembering the correct notes or listened to your gut feeling when under the pressure of a big decision All these instances prove that it is time to stop neglecting the role the body plays in our acquisition of knowledge and to explore how it is that brain and body combine to deliver what we view as uniquely human intelligence You never forgot how to ride a bike did you In this unique new book social and business anthropologist Simon Roberts looks at the pivotal role that our body

plays in how we learn and reminds us of why we should learn to listen to it more often Drawing upon an incredible range of cutting edge science real life examples and personal experience Roberts explores the complexity of even the simplest of tasks that humans perform every day and goes on to explain how with a greater awareness of the processes at work we can tap into our full potential and excel in any area of our lives His proposition isn't the antidote to big data cold rationalism and reductionism But as embodied knowledge emerges from our engagement and interaction with the world the author underlines why intelligence does not solely reside in our brains If there's a single practical message to be taken from it it is that we should give more credit to the role of the body as a resource for learning about and understanding the world That means a more sleeves rolled up engaged and practical way of learning by doing not by rational detachment Education in a Digital World Neil Selwyn,2013 The book takes a comprehensive look at digital technology use in educational settings around the world Drawing on a wealth of theoretical and empirical work the book tackles a number of pressing questions

Military Weapons and Environment Wing Commander (Dr) Umesh Chandra Jha,2017-10-15 Armed conflicts have become more complicated with the emphasis shifting towards new weapons such as drones cybercrime and autonomous weapons In July 2017 the UN General Assembly adopted the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons This treaty prohibits a full range of nuclear weapon related activities such as undertaking to develop test produce manufacture acquire possess or stockpile nuclear weapons or other nuclear explosive devices as well as the use or threat of use of these weapons The ongoing conflicts have shown that the consequences of the use of explosive weapons are not limited to death physical injury and disability but also include long term impacts on mental well being The use of improvised weapons by States and non State actors is an area of concern for the environment Every State must therefore ensure that weapons used by their armed forces are explicitly adjudged under International Humanitarian Law IHL and Human Rights Law While reviewing a new weapon the States must adopt multilateral approaches drawing upon relevant legal health environmental and military expertise This book describes the environmental effects of eight weapons and explosive remnants of war that have caused extensive environmental harm in the recent past It also makes specific recommendations addressed to the international community and the States for protecting the natural environment from the impact of weapons of war This book will contribute towards a better understanding of the environmental harm caused by military weapons
