Fluorescence SAR optical system for accurate measurements

The CLM single-core-reflex optical system allows precise energy and structure for the microscope allows for small area to be measured. The optical system is also virtually lossless, eliminating the absorption of light from a sample the image contrast ratio.

Various applications exist for measurements of wood properties.

Acceptable angles of only 1° for L5-100 and $1/2^\circ$ for L5-75 allow accurate measurements of small specimen areas. In addition, optional stacking lenses can be used to measure areas as small as 0.1 μm when using L5-100 and all of most other series L5-75.

To increase the versatility of the LS-600 and LS-600, both meters are equipped with user calibration and auto correction functions. The user calibration function allows the meter to be calibrated to a user-selected standard instead of the preset Korona Minolta standard. The function can also be used to standardize the response of several meters. The auto correction function allows the response of the meter to be adjusted when measuring colored substrates.

Luminescence ratio and peak luminescence
measured at 200°C

In addition to measurements of the present luminance, the L^* and a^* (or L^* and b^*) can also determine the present ratio of the measured luminance to a luminance value stored in memory as well as the ratio luminance or luminance ratio measured.

Usage of the built-in PDI-PDI interface allows the client to be connected to a terminal (optional).

Lightweight, compact design powered by a compact 300-watt engine for portability.

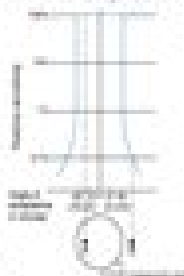

Initially, the relative spectral responsivity of the luminance meter should satisfy $Y \geq 1$ of the fixture eye to photopic vision. As shown in the graph above, the relative spectral responsivity of Konica Minolta Luminance Meters LB-1000 LB-100 is close to the Y spectral luminous efficiency $Y \geq 0.8$. Considerable improvement in luminance

The degree to which the influence of light from outside the defined measuring area is eliminated is an important factor in the performance of luminance meters. In Florida Atlantic University's studies, the new factor is used to indicate

1.1%, even if an object with sufficiently high luminance is just outside the meter's measuring area.

The graph at right shows the effect when a bright point is moved from A inside the measuring area to B just outside the measuring area. If the measured value at A is defined as 100%, the measured value at B would be less than 0.1%.
