

My secret place

In my childhood, I had a perfect place to go to when I felt like being on my own. In the village where I was born and grew up, not far from my house, we had a steep hill. On its top, an old building stood. No one, even older people, seemed to know who built it in such an inconvenient place, and what for. My great-grandmother told me that during World War II, there was a German headquarters there. Subsequently, dad said that there used to be an orphanage here.

None of the townsmen had ever visited the old house. Children were scared and adults did not feel like climbing up the steep slope for no reason. For most of the year, I was its only visitor. With my legs hanging from the attic, usually with an apple in my hand, I watched the sunsets and sunrises, and the birds in a nest above my head, and people working in their gardens, and the life beneath my outlook point. During such moments, I didn't care about anything - neither school problems, nor quarrels with friends —all this, as well as many other things—did not exist.

The moment when I once came and felt that I was not alone was unforgettable. I behaved like a cautious animal - I was frightened and cautious. Little by little and very carefully I decided to see who was there. Since I knew the building like the back of my hand, I knew how to do it inconspicuously. I saw a man and a woman lying on an old mattress, they looked very poor and unkempt, but they seemed peaceful. My heart sank when I saw how they, on such a cold winter day, were left alone and escaped from the cold with hugs. I decided to speak to them.

The next day I brought them some canned food and a blanket, and in exchange, they told me their stories, or joked with me. I heard stories of loneliness, betrayal, unpaid labor, crashed hopes and vehement dreams. In their voices, I could hear the wisdom and the ignorance of the world. They shared their fears, their grief, or their joy with a 13-year-old kid, knowing I will not spill the beans.

I believe that old house determined my life. The destinies of other people—perplexed, complicated, but at the same time keen and full of real life—helped me understand myself and the world around me, providing me with answers to issues that worry teenagers. Why is everything as it is? Who are the people around me? How should I treat others? This vagabonds, this couple, they taught me things much more valuable than what I could study in school. Perhaps one of the most important is not to judge people by their appearance, and not to look down on poor people. Since we don't know what their life was like.
