

Model 2 – Random Sampling Method

- a. According to Model 2, what is the probability of selecting a red die in a random draw out of the bag?

The probability of selecting a red die in a random draw out of the bag is 0.5 (50%).

- b. Suppose you draw a die from the bag seven times in a row, and each time you get a red die. How does this affect the probability of selecting a red die in a subsequent draw?

The probability of selecting a red die is determined by using replacement, not by adding up the counts. If you draw a red die seven times in a row, the probability of selecting a red die is still 0.5. This is because the probability of selecting a red die is determined by the ratio of red dice to total dice, which is 5/10 = 0.5.
