

Emergency Department Coding Policy

Emergency department (ED) physicians often perform acute surgical, orthopedic, and other high-risk procedures (e.g., total hip arthroplasty) in the ED. Coding policies for these procedures are established by the appropriate specialty societies and are not subject to change. The American College of Surgeons (ACS) is a national medical society that represents emergency physicians and provides a forum for the development of coding policies. The ACS has a policy that all procedures performed in the ED are coded as ED procedures, regardless of the type of procedure performed or the location of the procedure.

However, there are certain circumstances in which a procedure performed in the ED may be coded as an inpatient procedure. For example, if a patient is admitted to the hospital and the procedure is performed in the ED, the procedure should be coded as an inpatient procedure. If a patient is not admitted to the hospital and the procedure is performed in the ED, the procedure should be coded as an ED procedure. The ACS has a policy that all procedures performed in the ED are coded as ED procedures, regardless of the type of procedure performed or the location of the procedure.
