

Guided Reading Activity 5-1: Presidential Powers

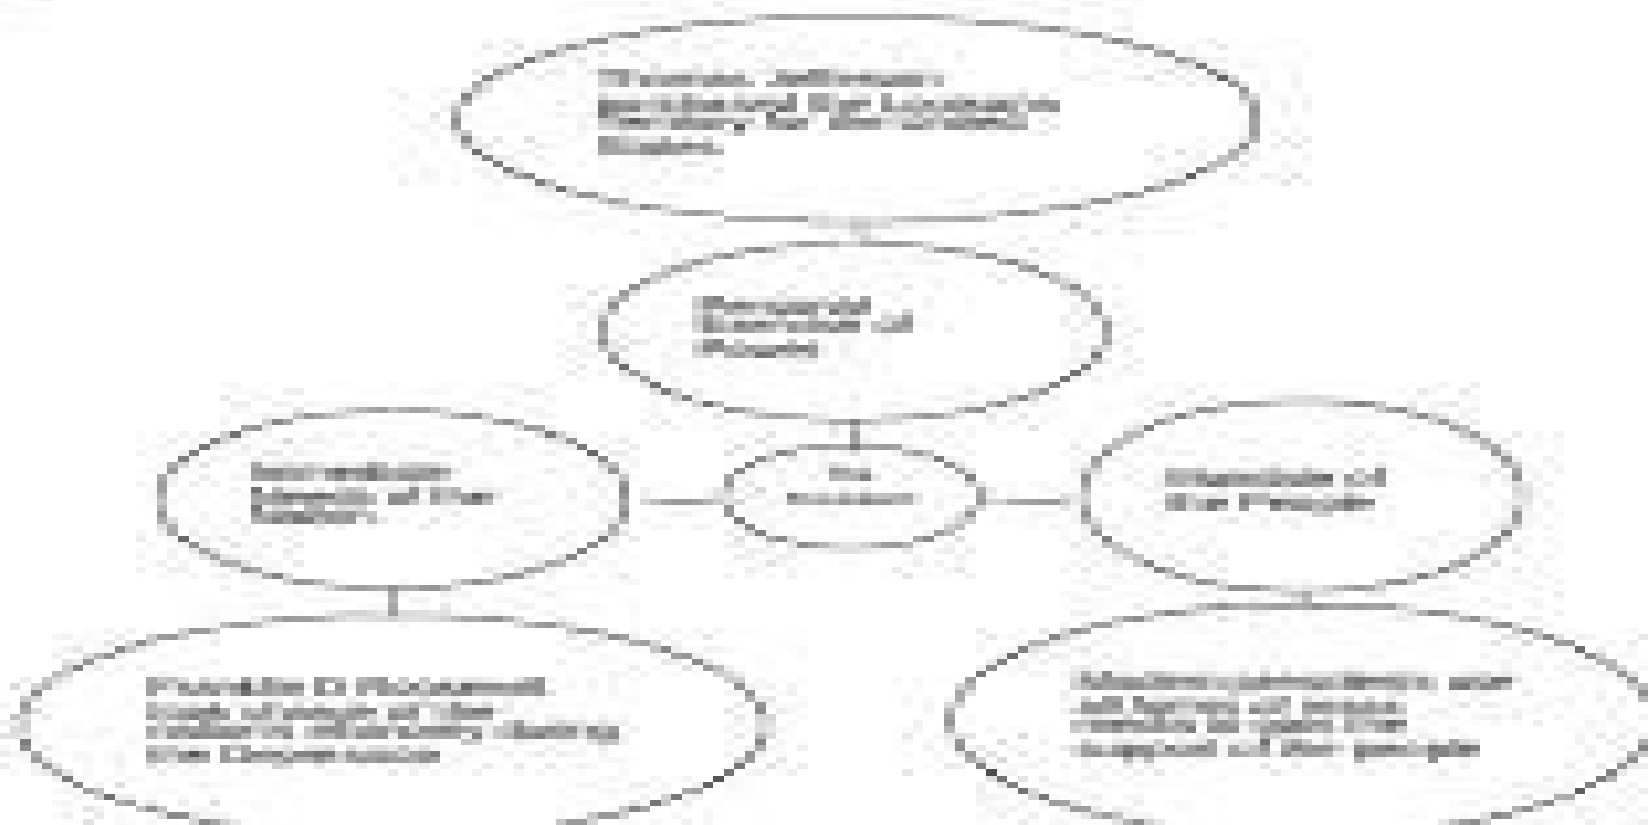

STUDENT: Use the self-assessment grid strategy to complete this concept work. Be sure to discuss what, under what of the president's individual powers, he can/should not, give an example of the power in action.

Why the President Must be a Strong Executive:

Without a strong, independent executive, the government would have no one to carry out the acts of Congress. The president directs, private property, and businesses; leads the legislative branch in action.

Presidential Powers Granted in the Constitution: commander in chief of the armed forces; appoints and dismisses members of the federal executive departments.

STUDENT: Use the self-assessment grid strategy to complete this concept work. Be sure to discuss what, under what of the president's individual powers, he can/should not, give an example of the power in action.
