account of fragments as has been suggested by Reich 2007 The second part of the book addresses the questions of why fragments are used at all and under which circumstances they are preferred over complete sentences Syntactic accounts impose licensing conditions on fragments but they do not explain why fragments are sometimes dis preferred provided that their usage is licensed This book proposes an information theoretic account of fragments which predicts that the usage of fragments is constrained by a general tendency to distribute processing effort uniformly across the utterance With respect to fragments this leads to two predictions which are empirically confirmed Speakers tend towards omitting predictable words and they insert additional redundancy before unpredictable words Proceedings of the Twenty-first Annual Conference of the Cognitive Science Society Martin Hahn, Scott C.
