Macromedia Flash MX 2004 for Rich Internet Applications Phillip Kerman, 2003. The long stale page metaphor for Web sites is finally dying out, replaced by the single screen rich Internet apps that Flash MX 2004 is at last bringing to the mainstream. To stay ahead of the curve and to start creating the kind of Web sites you used to only dream of, you need this guide. In these pages, you'll learn how to create the sites that more and more companies are demanding: the kind that pull complex data from multiple sources for delivery via a single Web interface so that users can perform multiple functions from a single screen. The focus here is on building the Flash MX 2004 front end to work with that complex data. You'll learn how to structure applications to eliminate page refreshes while reducing download time, build real-time and time-delayed applications with Flash Communication Server, integrate technologies like Flash Remoting and Macromedia Central, and more. You can even download all of the source files from the book's companion Web site.
