The Army Surveys of Gold Rush California Gary Clayton Anderson, Laura Lee Anderson, 2015-04-06 As the army's topographical engineer in California from 1849 to 1851 George Horatio Derby wrote detailed reports on the region its people its resources and its geography providing critical information for an understaffed military charged with bringing order to a vast new empire along the Pacific Slope Early maps and reports by pioneers trappers and newspapermen even by such professionals as John C. Fremont and William Emory were limited in scope and often unreliable In contrast those authored by Derby and the army's other trained topographical engineers were remarkably accurate extensive and richly descriptive Long buried in the files of the National Archives they have also remained largely unknown even to historians Collected and reproduced here for the first time these journals and maps offer a new and unique perspective on California in the mid nineteenth century Derby's reports and journals appear alongside those of Robert Stockton Williamson William H. Warner Edward O. C. Ord Nathaniel Lyon Henry Walton Wessells and Erasmus Darwin Keyes These documents offer extraordinary firsthand views of the environment natural resources geography and early settlement as well as the effects of disease on Native and white populations The writers detailed often witty insights offer new understandings of life in California during an era of momentous change Historian Gary Clayton Anderson and anthropologist Laura Lee Anderson provide historical geographic and biographical context in the book's introduction and in headnotes and annotations for each journal With these editorial enhancements the documents reveal as much of the character of their authors and their time as of the land and peoples they so carefully describe
