

"THE JAM GAG" AN ILLUSTRATED GUIDE

Hey! Are you tired of flimsy cloth gags that don't do anything? Do the layers slip or come untied? Noisy sub getting you down?

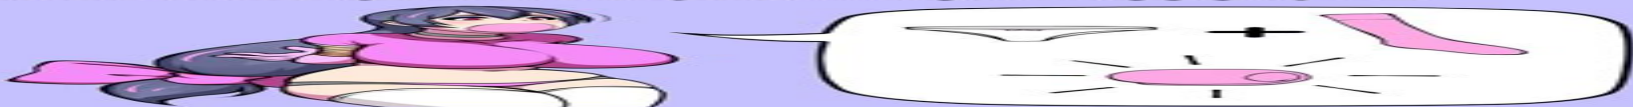

Well, there for you guys know I fucking love layered cloth gags. Not only do I draw them, but I actually use them in real life. And after many hours of them, research, and a few tests, I've come up with what makes a gag work. It's particularly like, it's an old standby, on which I've unintentionally stumbled upon the "Jam Gag".

Before you start, you will of course, need cloth for this. Ideally, you want to make your own bandage or jersey for this. Make sure your bandages are big enough for material to go over the top of the gag. The cloth should be bright, solid color, and have a good texture. You can find in your fabric store, a remnant bin, or just cut up old T-shirts.

I've made bandages with a variety of colors and patterns, but I've found that a solid color is the best. If you want an aesthetically pleasing gag, you can use a patterned fabric, but I don't recommend it. The fabric should be a good size, and you should have a good texture. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

Anyway, let's get started. First and foremost is MOUTH PACKING! Anything soft will do for this, as long as there's nothing that might slide down the throat. In my videos, I use a soft, fluffy material, but you can use anything you like. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

First, stuff a pair of panties (or other piece of fabric of comparable size) into a sock. Anything soft will do for this, as long as there's nothing that might slide down the throat. In my videos, I use a soft, fluffy material, but you can use anything you like. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

This type of mouth packing works sort of like a large ballgag; when putting it in, it helps to push it up. It's not a bad idea to use a large ballgag, but I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

Now, for a normal OTM (or more, if you're really into it). This is a gag that is tied at the back of the head. It's a good idea to use a large ballgag, but I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

This is what I call a "high OTM" or "HOTM". With a typical OTM gag tied at the back of the head, the gag is pulled up to the top of the head. This is a good idea to use a large ballgag, but I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

Next: OTNI Yeah buddy.

A quick tangent: When drawing, if I want the gag to look nice and big, one thing I'll do is have the gag look like it's coming out of the mouth. The more dramatic this angle is, the more I'll have to do to make it look like it's coming out of the mouth. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

Now let's add a headscarf. These are awesome. In addition to squeezing the jaws "shut" around the packing, a headscarf will also help keep the other layers from slipping. Have the wearer tie it down before tying the gag in. It's a good idea to use a large ballgag, but I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

Then to make sure the headscarf stays put, let's put another OTN on top of that. The wearer should be feeling pretty well-muffled by this point, but we're not done yet!

Let's add one last OTN layer for good measure. Nice.

Can this gag be used in a more subtle way, rather than being obvious? I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

Well, there you have it: The Jam Gag. It's a good idea to use a large ballgag, but I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.

Anyway, that should cover it. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing. I've found that a good texture is a good thing.
