The British Study Edition of the Urantia Papers Book [A4 PDF] , The English Cyclopaedia ,1861 Travel and Translation in the Early Modern Period ,2006-01-01 The relationship between travel and translation might seem obvious at first but to study it in earnest is to discover that it is at once intriguing and elusive Of course travelers translate in order to make sense of their new surroundings sometimes they must translate in order to put food on the table The relationship between these two human compulsions however goes much deeper than this What gets translated it seems is not merely the written or the spoken word but the very identity of the traveler These seventeen essays which treat not only such well known figures as Martin Luther Erasmus Shakespeare and Milton but also such lesser known figures as Konrad Gr nemberg Leo Africanus and Garcilaso de la Vega constitute the first survey of how this relationship manifests itself in the early modern period As such it should be of interest both to scholars who are studying theories of translation and to those who are studying hodoeporics or travel and the literature of travel

The Curious Eye Erin Webster, 2020-02-20 The Curious Eye explores early modern debates over two related questions what are the limits of human vision and to what extent can these limits be overcome by technological enhancement In our everyday lives we rely on optical technology to provide us with information about visually remote spaces even as we question the efficacy and ethics of such pursuits But the debates surrounding the subject of technologically mediated vision have their roots in a much older literary tradition in which the ability to see beyond the limits of natural human vision is associated with philosophical and spiritual insight as well as social and political control The Curious Eye provides insight into the subject of optically mediated vision by returning to the literature of the seventeenth century the historical moment in which human visual capacity in the West was first extended through the application of optical technologies to the eye Bringing imaginative literary works by Francis Bacon John Milton Margaret Cavendish and Aphra Behn together with optical and philosophical treatises by Johannes Kepler René Descartes Robert Hooke Robert Boyle and Isaac Newton the volume explores the social and intellectual impact of the new optical technologies of the seventeenth century on its literature At the same time it demonstrates that social political and literary concerns are not peripheral to the optical science of the period but rather an integral part of it the legacy of which we continue to experience
