Activity 10

Density-dependent or density factor

Carrying Capacity

- Intrinsic factor
- It is the upper limit of the population size
- It is determined by the amount of food available

Introduction: Density-dependent is the number of individuals in a population per unit of space. Density-dependent factors only affect a population when the density reaches a certain level. These limiting factors also include all biotic/abiotic/limiting factors.

Question: How does a density-dependent limiting factor affect carrying capacity?

1. Challenge question: What do you think would happen if a density-dependent limiting factor changed?

Response: None, zero, infinite

2. Challenge question: A drought led to a half crop in a field which leaving less food available for rabbits. How do you think this would affect carrying capacity?

Response: will have less food which will affect the carrying capacity in a field in a drought in a field in a drought

3. Challenge question: How do you think the carrying capacity will change? Students: will be able to use the carrying capacity table.

Initial	100	Final	100	Initial	100

4. Challenge question: How do you think the amount of space available in the field will affect how many individuals the environment can support?

Response: The larger the space available the larger the carrying capacity will be.

5. Challenge question: Why do you think limiting a population's space decreases the carrying capacity?

Response: The carrying capacity of the environment will decrease.

6. Challenge question: What do you think would happen if another density-dependent limiting factor changed?
