Status of digital agriculture in 47 sub-Saharan African countries Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, International Telecommunication Union, 2022-01-07 Sub Saharan Africa is uniquely positioned significantly increase its current agricultural productivity to lift the region's more than 400 million people out of extreme poverty and improve the livelihood of approximately 250 million smallholder farmers and pastoralists in the region To achieve that substantive digital transformation of the agriculture sector is required through improved infrastructure and increased access to and use of digital technologies for agriculture To improve the current understanding of sub Saharan Africa's digital agriculture landscape the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO and the International Telecommunication Union ITU undertook this study in 47 countries The report is composed of 47 desk based country case studies against six thematic focal areas the aim of which is to present a snapshot of the status of digital agriculture in each country This is followed by highlights of the main findings of the analysis of the country profiles with suggested steps for future action The findings of the study are presented to FAO and ITU Member States as well as all relevant stakeholders with the purpose of advancing and supporting investment in digital transformation of the agricultural sector in sub Saharan Africa

Development Management of Transforming Economies Fabiana Sciarelli, Azzurra Rinaldi, 2016-12-14 This insightful book offers a new and innovative tool in the study of development The authors propose The Overall Development Model which provides a strategy for long term sustainable and adaptable development for countries around the globe Starting with a comprehensive study into what development is and how it is achieved Development Management of Transforming Economies critically analyzes current development schemes within transforming economies and examines their various actors both international and local public and private It examines the implementation of health education and economic strategies of countries in Africa and Asia that have either undergone a development process experienced slow but steady progress or are just beginning to pursue a development strategy In considering human development as a whole the authors assert a new method of development that includes the developing population and highlights the need for countries to define their own unique development process

Digital Interactions in Developing Countries Jeffrey James, 2013-01-04 Jeffrey James is one of the relatively few academics to have systematically taken on the topic of IT and development In this timely book he undertakes a methodological critique of prominent topics in the debate Challenging the existing literature by international and governmental institutions the book looks not only at the digital divide but also at issues such as digital preparedness leapfrogging and low cost computers James also raises important issues which have been largely neglected in the literature such as the implications for poverty in developing countries and the macroeconomics of mobile phones The book argues that benefits from IT are captured in a different form in developing as opposed to developed countries In the latter gains come from technology ownership and use whereas in the former benefits cannot be captured as much in this way because ownership is more limited Interestingly the author shows that developing countries have responded to this distinction with a series of local innovations which are often low cost and pro poor This finding contradicts the widely held view that poor countries are unable to generate major innovations within their own borders Accessible and clearly written this book will be of great interest to scholars of development economics and development studies and is relevant to both policy makers and academics Dialogues on Mobile Communication Adriana de Souza e Silva,2016-10-04 In this book top scholars in the field of mobile communication discuss the major issues related to the use of mobile phones in today s society such as the tension between private and public youth mobile culture creative appropriations of mobile devices and mobile methods Each chapter unfolds as an open dialogue between scholars and graduate students of communication They contain an introduction by a student followed by a short lecture and a question and answer section with the students and a closing statement by a student that responds to the scholar s argument The book is a valuable resource not only for individuals interested in mobile communication but also students and teachers willing to use the affordances of mobile media to expand the physical boundaries of classrooms and promote collaborative learning practices The Global Information Technology Report 2003-2004 World Economic Forum,2004 The Global information Technology is published by the World Economics Forum where it is a special project within the framework of the Global Competitiveness Programme The GTR is the result of a collaboration between the World Economics Forum infoDev and INSEAD Firs published in 2001 The global Information Technology Report has become the most authoritative and comprehensive assessment of the networked readiness of national economies around the world The Report has since expanded its coverage this year to 102 countries The Report which captures new insights and best serve as a tollo for policymakers and business leaders The overall goal of the Reports is to establish a process whereby key stakeholders con evaluate progress on a continual basis The Little Data Book on Information and Communication Technology 2010 World Bank,2010-06-03 This Little Data Book presents at a glance tables for over 140 economies showing the most recent national data on key indicators of information and communications technology ICT including access quality affordability efficiency sustainability and applications Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting 2007 Commonwealth Secretariat,2007 Presents current thought and pertinent analysis on Commonwealth issues and challenges In depth articles and case studies focus on topical issues including the theme of the 2007 Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting Transforming Commonwealth Societies to achieve political economic and human development Africa 2.0 Russell Southwood,2022-07-12 Africa wired up provides an important history of how two technologies mobile calling and internet were made available to millions of Sub Saharan Africans and the impact they have had on their lives The book deals with the political challenges of liberalization and privatization that needed to be in place to get these technologies built It analyses how the mobile phone fundamentally changed communications in Sub Saharan Africa and the ways Africans have made these technologies part of their lives It examines critically the technologies impact on development practices and the key role development actors played in accelerating things like regulatory reform fibre roll out and mobile money The book considers how corruption in the industry is a prism through which patronage relationships in Government can be understood The arrival of a start up ecosystem has the potential to break these relationships and offer a new wave of investment opportunities The author seeks to go beyond the hype to make a provisional assessment of the kinds of changes that have happened over three decades It examines how and why these technologies became transformative and seem to have opened out a very different future for Sub Saharan Africa

African Industrial Development and European Union

Co-operation Francis Matambalya, 2014-08-27 Of the 54 African states only South Africa is categorised by the United Nations Industrial Development Organization UNIDO amongst industrialised countries The economic activities in Africa are still dominated by the production and trade of agricultural and mineral commodities This situation is in spite of the longstanding Africa European Union EU co operation which intends among other things to support Africa's industrialisation endeavours Imperatively a long road to substantive levels of industrialisation still lies ahead of most African countries This raises the question as to what role the international community could and should play in the twenty first century to provide the support needed to expedite Africa's industrial transformation This book argues that to supplement the initiatives of each African country international partnerships of both a North South and South South nature will serve better purposes if they are leveraged to develop productive capacities in African economies In order to enable the African countries to leverage their traditional partnership with the EU for industrialisation a paradigm shift is obligatory A feasible model should emulate the Japanese led flying geese model and the Chinese led bamboo capitalism model

2009 Information and

Communications for Development World Bank, 2009-01-01 Over the last decade information and communication technologies ICT have been increasingly used to achieve development goals Developing countries including poorer ones have enjoyed rapid technological progress to help pull millions of people out of poverty ICTs help transform economic and social activities for firms governments and citizens Information and Communication for Development 2009 Scaling Up Impact the second issue of the World Bank's IC4D series focuses on the effect of increased access to advanced ICT services and development of a vibrant IT sector on sustaining growth
