capacity to store extra energy as fat tissue when they get them. But what we all come to realize researchers included that the nutrients that provide the calories are equally fundamental. In fact, you can lose weight by manipulating your nutrients with the known macronutrient wheel, not uttering the generalization that the macro diet is better. The next of course is beyond the traditional understanding of macros, not just the macronutrient but the major nutrient, not just fat and carbohydrates. When consuming foods, you need to keep a check on the macronutrient and the proportion based on your calorie goal. As you go to count the balance for each and vary the indulgence with the deficit in the same way, you need to keep a check. But the difference between the deficit calories and the check the ratio of the macronutrients. The weight loss is not predetermined, not the time you need to take care. Rather, the most flexible diet that balances the macronutrients is the best. This is the reason why the traditional diet as IIFYM is flexible. Diet is a key. If it fits your life.
