

THE GREAT GATSBY Chapter 7: Gatsby vs. Tom

Chapter 7 unfolds dramatically, which makes it a prime example of what is called the “scenic method,” a narrative technique often employed by F. Scott Fitzgerald but created by American novelist Henry James. The “scenic method” means the author presents a series of scenes from which the readers can draw their own conclusions about the character and events, as opposed to the author spelling things out directly for the readers. The conflict between Gatsby and Tom that culminates in the Plaza Hotel “showdown” is developed primarily through this method. On the provided tracking sheet, you will be interpreting action/dialogue to determine who—Gatsby or Tom—is “winning” throughout key sections of the text, using a simple points system. Each action/remark—positive or negative—is worth one point. Log/briefly explain each action/remark and keep a running total so you can easily see which character is in the lead in each scene.

[EXAMPLE: +1 point for Gatsby when Daisy remarks that he looks “so cool,” which is apparently code for “I love you.”]
