These three influences are thought to be the most important factors that affect a country's economic growth. The first factor is the country's natural resources, which include land, labor, and capital. The second factor is the country's human capital, which includes the education and skills of the workforce. The third factor is the country's institutions, which include the legal system, the government, and the social norms. These three factors are thought to be the most important factors that affect a country's economic growth.
