Individual and Occupational Determinants Joanna Bugajska, Teresa Makowiec-Dąbrowska, Tomasz Kostka, 2020-09-23 There are individual and professional factors that have the greatest impact on the preservation of work ability for people of advanced age and people with chronic health issues and disabilities This text examines the demographic trends in the population and shows that proper functioning in their lives is only possible if people are provided with appropriate psychosocial and physical working conditions This publication discusses physiological changes that occur with age and influence work performance It presents the concept of applying the International Classification of Functioning Disability and Health ICF in order to assess the work ability of people with disabilities It shows using examples and case studies that practical activities aimed at appropriate working conditions for people of advanced age and people with health issues and disabilities will have excellent work ability Features Presents a comprehensive approach to workplace tolerance for people with health issues Offers an innovated in depth evaluation of the Work Ability Index WAI Presents applying the International Classification of Functioning Disability and Health ICF to access the work ability of people with disabilities Outlines actions that should be taken to maintain work ability for people of advanced age or with disabilities Provides real case studies and analysis Demographic changes especially those related to aging belong to the main changes occurring in the contemporary working environment Thus preserving work ability in the older population as well as populations with health concerns are among the most important challenges of today Accordingly the monograph fits into the most recent issues of this public health area focusing on work ability in populations at risk of social exclusion also occupational exclusion These are older people persons with chronic diseases and those with different types of disabilities In my opinion highlighting the problem of work ability in the context of aging by the authors in such a broad understanding is extremely valuable and useful and the presented research outcome is an authentic and very much expected contribution to the discussion on this issue The topic has been thoroughly presented which undoubtedly results from the interdisciplinarity of the group of authors including specialists in work physiology physicians and physiotherapists The monograph provides a very measurable and reliable knowledge in this field Combining the theory with the presentation of the authors research outcomes is an unquestionable advantage of the monograph Jolanta Walusiak Skorupa Nofer Institute of Occupational Medicine d Poland      Towards a holistic approach to support learners at risk of interrupted development Macalane J. Malindi, Johnnie Hay, Thabo Makhalemele, 2024-02-23 The COVID 19 pandemic and the restrictions that came with it led to unprecedented disruptions in learner development and put them at risk of poor developmental outcomes It is thus important that the extent of the disruption on their development and the support needs of learners be investigated Researching the impact of the disruption should focus on holistic development In this book the authors use multiple research approaches and methods of gathering data in their respective fields to examine the impact of the disruption and determine the support needs of learners Data gathered through the different methods are processed and findings are presented The findings have implications for both practice and future research in the fields of inclusive education learner support educational psychology movement education Life Orientation and curriculum development      Human Rights, Diversity, and National Identity Patricia E. Bromley, 2011 Fundamental world changes that simultaneously undermine a nation state's charisma and promote the rise of a supra national system have wide ranging effects upon national states within a modern global society My dissertation empirically examines the effects of social and cultural globalization on systems of mass schooling which are central institutions in every country Globally primary and secondary education initially emerged as the premier tool for nation states to create a unified national citizenry loyal to their country and socialized into a common cultural tradition I examine the extent to which this original nationalizing purpose of schooling is challenged by the increased emphases on universal human rights and diversity in civic education The analyses consist of two sections Hierarchical linear models are used to analyze a unique primary data source of 521 social science textbooks from 74 countries during the period 1970-2008 These findings show a worldwide increase in emphasis on human rights and increases in discussions of diversity in well established liberal democracies Cross national quantitative analyses are complemented by a qualitative case study of social science curricula in British Columbia BC which examines nation building within a context of strong emphasis on diversity and human rights The BC study utilizes currently approved high school citizenship education textbooks as well as older textbooks dating back to 1871 It also draws on a selection of historical documents including Ministry of Education reports curricular frameworks and high school exit exams Process wise I find the incorporation of human rights and diversity reflects macro level changes in national and global society Content wise I find four main approaches to reconciling ideas of human rights and diversity with national identity 1 framing human rights and multiculturalism as part of national identity 2 using pedagogical approaches that promote multiple perspectives and individual agency 3 celebrating social and scientific figures and accomplishments as the source of national pride and 4 drawing on exogenous sources to affirm state legitimacy This study is one of the first to theorize that civic education worldwide is moving away from a national focus and to provide empirical evidence of this trend A key implication is that educational systems are being repurposed from their original goal of constructing a unitary national citizenry to a new view emphasizing human diversity and equality in a globally interconnected world Further students are increasingly taught that the global civil society and non state actors are important and legitimate agents of social change      Schooling for

Sustainable Development in Africa Heila Lotz-Sisitka, Overson Shumba, Justin Lupele, Di Wilmot, 2016-11-11 This book considers the scope and dynamics of Education for Sustainable Development ESD and learning in schools in Africa It explores the conditions and processes that support such learning and examines how ESD in schooling can improve the quality and relevance of education The quality of education has been defined internationally as a key concern for educational institutions around the world including schools in Africa The models of quality are often limited to performance based approaches and or inclusive approaches The contributions in this book show that there is more to a discussion on educational quality in Africa than performance success and or inclusion The chapters explain how ESD brings a new relevance to education in Africa and at the same time sounds the beginning of a new concept of quality education The volume presents a collection of experiences in creating and supporting quality learning processes through a variety of ESD practices
