I. INTRODUCTION

The revolution in information technology and Internet-based networking plays a crucial role in today's society and has influenced people of all ages. In the current scenario, Internet and computer technology are considered to be the most powerful tool and have had impact in all fields of science, industry, education, culture, politics, etc.[1]. Nowadays, Internet addiction has been raised as a mental disorder in psychology and medical science and this disorder as a new form of addiction in recent years has attracted the attention of researchers from various fields including psychology-sociology, psychiatry, sociology and other disciplines [2, 3].

The use of internet become indispensable and internet has now revolutionized the research field. Most of Journals and books are online. Researchers search the literature on internet. There are many software to search literature like Mendeley, Endnote, Zotero, etc. researchers can also check plagiarism on through software like plagiarism checker, Turnitin, Urkund etc. researchers are heavily dependent on internet for research purpose. Research scholars are using internet not only for academic purpose but also for social interaction using Facebook, Instagram, Whatsapp, E-mail.

Social media is a platform where individuals or groups interact with each other. In which they produce, share and exchange ideas, thoughts and information.[4] there is also special social media platforms for researchers like Researchgate, Academia.edu etc. where researchers can share their research and also interact with each other. They use internet for both academia and extracurricular activities like social media, gaming, sexually explicit websites etc.
